Turkish Troops Mass Near Cyprus

By United Press International

Troops, tanks and artillery massed on Turkey's southern beaches 50 miles from Cyprus today and an Istanbul newspaper said Turkey planned to invade the embattled island republic.

Cyprus' new military-backed regime moved to restore calm in the island republic and proclaimed friendship for Turkish Cypriots in an apparent bid to avert a military confrontation with Turkey.

Archbishop Makarios, deposed as president of Cyprus in a Greek-led military coup on Monday, arrived in London today en route to the United Nations to make an impassioned plea for international aid.

"I am safe and sound and fighting for peace and unity in my country," Makarios said before boarding a British Royal Air Force jet for a flight to London, where he is planning to meet with British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan.

In Istanbul, Turkish Premier Bulent Encevit met with the commanders of the army, navy and air force for urgent consulatations, but no details of the talks were released. Ecevit charged Greece had violated Cyprus' independence

Turkey's second largest newspaper, Gunaydin, proclaimed in a red, banner headline: "We are making an invasion of Cyprus."

Witnesses said a strike force of troops, tanks and artillery massed near sea transports on Turkey's southern beaches and reported an new armored division rolling from the city of Adana to the coast.

The Ankara government issued an ultimatum warning Turkey would act alone if British troops stationed on Cyprus refused to intervene in the crisis to insure the island remained independent of Greece.

Nicosia Radio broadcast assurances for Turkish Cypriots that the Greek-led national guard coup that installed newspaper publisher Nicos Sampson as president would not change their status.

"The Turkish Cypriots need not fear anything," Nicosia Radio said. "The change exclusively concerns the Greeks of Cyprus. We look on the Turks with sincere feelings of friendship."

The radio also said Zenon Rossides, Cypriot representative at the United Nations under Makarios, no longer represented Cyprus at the world body.

In a related development, diplomatic sources in Athens said the Greek ambassador to Turkey, Dimitrios Kosmadopoulo, resigned. No reason was given.

Sampson, the new Cypriot president, lifted the two-day-old curfew in Nicosia during the morning to allow essential workers to resume their jobs.

Nicosia Radio said the curfew was lifted from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. and appealed especially for milk and bread deliveries so that Cypriots could have basic food.

UPI Correspondent Andreas Hadjipapas, in a pooled dispatch from the island, reported more than 60 dead or wounded in two days of fighting following Monday's coup by the Greek-led Cypriot national guard.

The State Department said two Americans were wounded in the takeover, but the lives of the 6,600 U.S. citizens on Cyprus did not appear "in jeopardy."

The United States warned Greece and Turkey to avoid direct interference on Cyprus and said it favored independent status for the island republic, which has a Greek majority and Turkish minority population.

The Soviet Union warned Greece to halt "it's intervention or face the consequences." Greece said the uprising was an internal affair of Cyprus and pledged to keep out of the conflict.

The new Cyprus government, headed by publisher Nicos Sampson, avoided any mention of eventually uniting the island with Greece. Sampson has been a leader of Greek Cypriot militants supporting "enosis" —union with Greece.

In Ankara, a Foreign Office spokesman said Turkey would act alone if British troops stationed on Cyprus refused to intervene to safeguard independence for the island in the next 24 hours.

Turkish President Fahri Koruturk called an emergency meeting of parliament for Thursday and government officials said the cabinet would seek the lawmakers' approval for possible military intervention.

Soviets, America At Odds

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union and the United States were at odds today over what, if anything, the Security Council should do about the Cyprus coup and the overthrow of President Makarios.

At the first council meeting on the crisis, the Soviets on Tuesday called for urgent measures to protect the independence of the island. But the United States, supported by Britain, said information from Cyprus was still too sketchy to make any decisions.

The 15-nation council adjourned to await developments, including possibly a visit by Makarios, who spent the night on Malta en route to London. No time was set for resumption of the debate.

In Tuesday's debate, Soviet delegate Vasily S. Safronchuk blamed the coup on the Greek Army officers who command the Cyprus National Guard. He said the Greek military government must bear responsibility.

He called on the council to "take the most urgent measures, to protect the independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity" of Cyprus. "Time will not wait," he declared. But he did not submit a resolution for council action.

Ambassador John A. Scali of the United States said his government supports the "independence and territorial integrity of Cyprus and its existing constitutional arrangements." But he said, "unfortunately, there is much ... we still do not know about the emerging situation on Cyprus, and it is difficult at this moment to see clearly whether and how the council can make a positive contribution."

The Makarios government's U.N. representative, Ambassador Zenon Rossides, flared up at the calls for delay and urged an immediate cease-fire resolution.

But like Safronchuk, Rossides did not submit a resolution.

Progress Report on New Freeman Building, Pike Plan

KINGSTON

Uptown Kingston — especially Wall Street and Hurley Avenue — will take on a new look this fall with the completion of two major projects, the Pike Plan on Wall Street and the Daily Freeman building on Hurley Avenue.

Both projects are on target for completion by Nov. 1.

The Daily Freeman, a landmark in Rondout since 1871, will be moving into the former A&P building on Hurley Avenue where extensive renovations and expansion will provide more than twice the space as in the present building.

The $160,000 Pike Plan, as envisioned by Woodstock Artist John Pike, detailed by Kingston Architect Albert E. Milliken and put into practice by Kingston Contractor Axel Johannsen is the culmination of more than five years of planning by the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, the Uptown Businessmen's Association and city officials.

The brightly colored turn of the century motiff has given Wall Street a new look including new sidewalks and curbs and canopies extending from the buildings to the street.

The east side of Wall Street, Phase I, was contracted for and completed last year.

With the completion of the west side of Wall Street, the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency will have invested more than half a million dollars in that one block section of the street from John Street to North Front.

Nixon: 'Thinnest Scandal in U.S. History'

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon says he believes there has been 'harassment on a massive basis of innocent people" by some members of the press and prosecutors in the Watergate case.

And in an interview made public on Tuesday, he said "the chance to get a fair trial anyplace is impossible" for any Watergate figure.

He said that if the charges against him in connection with Watergate were true, "I wouldn't serve for one minute" and nobody would have to ask him to resign. He termed Watergate "the thinnest scandal in American history."

The President said that if he "had bugged out of Vietnam," as some liberal members of the press wanted, "Watergate would have been a blip. They wouldn't have cared."

The interview is included in a new paperback book, "The Personal Nixon: Staying on the Summit," written by Rabbi Baruch M. Korff of Providence, R.I., and Rehoboth, Mass. He is head of an anti-impeachment organization known as the National Citizens' Committee for Fairness to the Presidency.

In the interview, the President said that if charges against him on Watergate and the cover-up were true, "nobody would have to ask me to resign. I wouldn't serve for one minute if they were true.

"But, I know they are not true, and therefore I will stay here, do the job that I was elected to do, and trust to the American constitutional process to make the final verdict."

However, the President said he felt resignation or impeachment at this time "would have devastating consequences in terms of foreign policy, would jeopardize the best hope we have to build a structure of peace in the world."

Nixon said "the great majority of those who have analyzed the (Watergate presidential) transcripts say they don't find an impeachable offense, but they don't like their tone.

"Well, I can say if they were to tape the conversations of Presidents that I have known they wouldn't like their tone either."

Nixon said he believed some of Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski's "eager-beaver staffers" had engaged in "an abusive process."

He said "it will be found that there has been harassment on a massive basis of innocent people, that many without guilt have had their reputations badly damaged .... Many who have been charged with guilt have been charged on flimsy indictments as was indicated in the Mitchell-Stans trial."

He referred to former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, who were acquitted of criminal conspiracy charges in connection with fund-raising efforts for Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

"Much of the press and particularly, I am sorry to say, much of the television press, has not been responsible," Nixon charged.

When Nixon made similar charges in the past, he refused to elaborate.

Rabbi Korff told newsmen after meeting with Nixon on Tuesday that he personally considered the Ehrlichman verdict "a blot on justice." Asked if Nixon agreed with him, Korff told reporters, "He agrees with me that it is a blot on justice. I have the impression that he would agree with me."

CABIN CRUISER GUTTED—The charred hulk of a 24-foot cabin cruiser was all that remained today after an explosion and fire tore through the craft Tuesday in a slip between Island Dock and Dwyer's Boat Basin off Abeel Street. Four men aboard the boat survived the blast. Kingston firemen fought the blaze for nearly two hours after the blast, which occurred shortly after 7:45 p.m. Fire officials said fumes below deck were apparently touched off when the engine backfired. Fish Admits a Misunderstanding

(Special to The Daily Freeman)

By HUGH REYNOLDS

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. admitted that he was mistaken in concluding from Charles Colson's testimony on Monday before the House Judiciary Committee that President Nixon had ordered the break-in of the offices of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist as part of the "Ellsberg Operation."

Monday afternoon, following about two hours of testimony from Colson, a former Nixon aide, Fish told reporters that Colson had implicated the President in the break-in.

Tuesday, Fish told the Freeman he had been misunderstood, although he did not deny making the statements on Monday. He indicated the matter would be clarified when Colson was cross-examined by Nixon's lawyer, James St. Clair on Tuesday afternoon.

"St. Clair made note of the confusion," Fish said, referring to Tuesday's session of the Judiciary Committee. Fish said St. Clair asked Colson if Colson knew whether Nixon ordered the break-in. "Colson said he didn't know," said Fish, adding, "he also said Ehrlichman didn't tell him either."

The last statement was in reference to reports Tuesday that former presidential aide John Ehrlichman had told Colson that Nixon ordered the break-in.

With the completion of testimony from former presidential lawyer Herbert Kalmbach, the committee will get down to the business of voting on articles of impeachment. Committee Chairman Peter Rodino says public debate will begin on Monday on the articles of impeachment and that he expects a vote by the end of the month.

Fish, like other Republicans on the committee, is not satisfied with the method of presentation of evidence as dictated by Rodino and the majority Democrats on the 38-member committee.

"Only evidence that supports articles of impeachment will be presented to us, which is unfortunate," Fish said. "We wanted evidence pro and con. We've been asking for that for weeks. I really don't know why Rodino is doing this. I think all the evidence should be presented."

The articles of impeachment are expected to cover a broad range of topics including obstruction of justice in the Watergate case, alleged use of government agencies such as the IRS for political purposes, contempt of Congress for failing to answer subpoenas calling for 147 tape conversations, Nixon's personal finances and the use of wiretaps by the "plumbers."

Fish doesn't expect articles of impeachment on such items as the bombing of Cambodia or the dismantling of OEO.

As has been his policy throughout the hearings, Fish refused to make any predictions on how the impeachment vote would go in the committee.

"I have always hesitated on predictions," he said. "This is such a subjective matter. I always thought it difficult to try to figure what's in the minds of my colleagues on the committee."

And how does Congressman Fish feel?

"Congressman Fish just feels a very, very heavy responsibility and he will be glad when it is over," Fish said.

Caller Blames New Zealand Patrol

U.S. Soldiers Massacred?

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (UPI) — Did a New Zealand army patrol kill six American soldiers found torturing civilians in South Vietnam?

The New Zealand government promised a full inquiry Tuesday night after an emotional caller telephoned a report of the slayings to an Auckland radio station.

The obviously distressed man, his voice breaking, said he had wanted to get the story off his chest for two years, but would not identify himself unless granted immunity from prosecution.

The caller, in remarks broadcast live over a telephone talk show, said he was part of a four-man New Zealand patrol that found six American GIs "interrogating and torturing" civilians in South Vietnam.

"The civilians were bound and the Americans were hitting them with truncheons," he said. "It looked to us as if two of the civilians were already dead when we arrived."

He said the New Zealanders did not know what to do at first, but decided to intervene when the beatings kept on. Two New Zealanders approached while the others covered from a distance.

The caller said a GI pointed a gun at one of the advancing men, a New Zealander "shot and killed the American" and then "everybody just started shooting."

The caller said two Americans were killed, two wounded and two unharmed. He said the surviving GIs put down their arms, but the New Zealanders decided to cover up the incident by shooting and burying them in a deep hole.

"We never thought we'd get away with this...we kept it to ourselves...it's as if the whole thing never happened," the caller said.

Defense Minister Arthur Faulkner said the New Zealand government would investigate the report "with the utmost vigor."

He said the caller did not appear to be acting. "It's difficult to tell, but I don't think he could sustain an act so long," he said.

In Washington, Pentagon sources said a check of the records of the 300 American servicemen missing in South Vietnam failed to show six men missing on the same day in the same place under such circumstances.

The officials said, however, the bodies could have been recovered during the war, and the men declared dead as a result of a presumed ambush.

Vogt Submits Law Memorandum

KINGSTON

An Ulster County Court decision on whether or not District Attorney Francis J. Vogt will be allowed to prosecute alleged New York City Mafia boss Charles Panarella on a loaded gun charge should be forthcoming sometime between now and Sept. 10.

After Vogt submitted a memorandum of law to Judge Mino last Friday, the judge had 60 days to make a decision. Panarella, through his attorney William Pretsch previously moved to have evidence suppressed and the case dismissed for failure to prosecute.

Panarella, John Pate of Brooklyn and the late Mrs. Antoinette Pirotti were arrested in April 1972 on the Blue Mountain Road in Saugerties by a task force of FBI agents and State Police. Mrs. Pirotti, who has since been killed in a car accident in 1973, previously claimed ownership of the guns.

Vogt is anxious to prosecute Panarella and Pate because the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section of the Department of Justice asked him to defer prosecution and dismiss charges because of the possibility of double jeopardy. Vogt agreed to defer prosecution but declined to dismiss the charges.

In the meantime federal authorities not only failed to prosecute but failed to notify Vogt that their charges had been dismissed

Panarella, Pate and Mrs. Pirotti were riding in what is termed a "back-up car" at the time of their arrest. It was a back up for Alphonse "Alley Boy" Persico and Jerry Langella. Persico and Langella who have since disappeared, were reputed members of the Columbo gang and were also arrested.

Explosion Rocks Cruiser

KINGSTON

An explosion and fire ripped through a 24-foot cabin crusier in a slip between Island Dock and Dwyer's Boat Basin in Kingston Tuesday night, resulting in injuries to three men who were aboard the craft. A fourth passenger apparently escaped serious injury.

An eye-witness said the explosion knocked the four men "in all directions," and flames quickly erupted.

The four men, according to various reports, either jumped or were blown into the water by the force of the blast. Two swam to Dwyer's Boat Basin, and two made it to Island Dock before help arrived, according to witnesses.

The four men aboard the boat were all rushed to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance.

Hospitalized with first and second degree burns were the owner of the craft, Joseph Riedner, 49, of Bloomington, and Roy Gonyea, 38, of RD 2, Denver Road, Kingston. Both were listed in satisfactory condition today.

A third passenger, Wayne Hartzheim, 45, of Manlius, N.Y. was treated for first degree burns of the right arm at the hospital and later released. The fourth passenger, identified as Kevin Kronin of Schenectady, refused treatment at the hospital, according to fire officials.

City fire fighters rushed to the scene shortly after 7:45 p.m. after receiving a telephone call reporting the explosion.

On arrival, firemen found the cabin cruiser fully engulfed in flames in the middle of the slip between Island Dock and the boat basin.

At that point, firemen learned that there had been four men aboard the craft, and several fire fighters leaped in the water to search for survivors, not yet knowing that the four men on board had made it to shore.

The burning craft was also pushed toward shore, where firemen were better able to get at the flames. Streams of water from two fire trucks were poured on the blazing craft, but despite firemen's efforts, the cabin crusier was reported to be nearly a total loss.

One fire fighter who had leaped into the water, William Cole, suffered a gash on the right foot as he climbed onto shore after searching for survivors in the water. He was treated and released at an area hospital and later returned to duty, fire officials said.

Kingston firemen remained at the scene for nearly two hours.

Fire officials said today the probable cause of the explosion and resultant fire was that the carburetor flooded, causing a buildup of fumes below deck, which ignited when the engine backfired. Officials added that the Coast Guard would be called in to investigate the explosion.

Murder Charge Is Lodged In Discotheque Tragedy

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — A young man accused of setting a discotheque fire that took 24 lives has been charged with murder.

Dist. Atty. Carl A. Vergari of Westchester County filed a murder charge Tuesday against Peter J. Leonard, 22, Greenwich, Conn., as the first step in having him brought here from a Bridgeport, Conn. jail.

Leonard is being held on arson and burglary charges stemming from the June 30 blaze at Gulliver's discotheque in Port Chester, N.Y. Connecticut State's Atty. A. Brown said the charges would be dropped when Vergari issues arrest warrants for Leonard.

Leonard refused to waive extradition on Tuesday during a hearing in Bridgeport Superior Court. He was charged with being a fugitive from justice and ordered held without bail by Judge Otto LaMacchia. A hearing on the extradition question was set for Aug. 14 in Bridgeport.

When Leonard was arrested, police reported he had broken into a bowling alley adjacent to the discotheque, then set a fire in a nursery area to disguise the break-in.

The jurisdictional question arose because the building housing the bowling alley, nursery and discotheque straddled the New York-Connecticut border between Port Chester and Greenwich.

Surveyors determined on Monday that the nursery was on the New York side of the line, which put the case under Vergari's jurisdiction.

Meanwhile, two separate suits stemming from the fire were initiated.

A preliminary claim for $18 million against the village of Port Chester was filed with the village clerk there on behalf of nine families of victims of the fire.

The claim contends that Port Chester was liable because it allegedly allowed overcrowding at the discotheque and allowed improper fire-prevention procedures to be used at Gulliver's.

Edward Saltzman, counsel for the village, said its protection against profuse claims would allow Port Chester to ignore the claim.

In Westchester state Supreme Court, attorney Jacob Fuchsberg filed a motion on behalf of the husband of one of the victims, seeking permission to participate in Vergari's investigation in order to prepare his own case.

Fuchsberg said police had denied him access to certain records because of the continuing investigation.

Reinecke Perjury Trial Gets Underway

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Conceding that his client gave erroneous information to a Senate committee, the lawyer for Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke says the defendant's problems may stem from being straightforward to a fault.

Reinecke, said attorney James E. Cox, is a "straight, gentle, courteous, overly cooperative human being ... who will talk to people, maybe when he shouldn't."

Cox was defending Reinecke Tuesday in the first day of testimony at Reinecke's perjury trial.

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., testified that Reinecke had told him he spoke with then-Attorney General John N. Mitchell in May of 1971 about an ITT offer to help pay for the 1972 Republican convention.

Later that day, March 3, 1972, Reinecke issued a news release saying the conversation was in September of that year and repeated that statement before a Senate Judiciary Committee investigation. The difference in dates was the basis for the perjury charge.

Prosecutor Richard Davis had earlier told the federal jury that Reinecke had deliberately lied and said the defendant "in this case will turn out to be the most important witness against himself."

But defense lawyer Cox, trying to prove Reinecke made an honest error in his 1972 Senate testimony, told the jury Reinecke made a "dumb fool mistake."

"People make errors ... under oath," Cox said. "We will show mistakes that the special prosecutor has made."

Mrs. Janet Petersen, Reinecke's former personal secretary, testifying as a witness for the government, said Reinecke had appeared "puzzled, perplexed and annoyed" when office records did not show him as having met with Mitchell in May.

Mrs. Petersen quoted Reinecke as saying: "I'm sure I met with ... I know I met with him." Later in the day, she said, Reinecke drafted a press release in which he said he had been mistaken in saying he had met with Mitchell in May, 1971.

Cox told the jury, "You know, the guy has a reputation for putting his foot in his mouth and has a lousy staff."

Nixon Accepts 'Resignation' of OEO Head

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon officially accepted the requested resignation of Alvin J. Arnett as head of the Office of Economic Opportunity on Tuesday and named Assistant Director Bert A. Gallegos to succeed him.

While declining to say Arnett was fired from the post, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said there were "irreconcilable differences" between Arnett's approach and Nixon's over-all policy regarding the agency.

Arnett said in Washington that he was being forced out of his post by the White House because of his efforts to save remaining war-on-poverty programs. Warren said he would take issue with any suggestion Nixon wants to kill OEO.

Warren said under Nixon's policy most OEO agencies that the President believes should be handled by the federal government have been moved to other departments.

But OEO's most controversial program, Community Action, will die on its 10th birthday in August unless Congress acts to save it. Nixon thinks the program should be a local responsibility, Warren said.

Arnett, whose resignation is effective July 31, said in an interview Monday, "I was told that the President does not want OEO." He said he was accused of trying to save the programs, adding, "I plead guilty."

Nixon has refused to ask Congress for any new appropriations to keep the OEO in operation. It has been operating with $330 million funding under a special resolution that expires Sept. 30.

The White House spokesman said Arnett's resignation letter wouldn't be made public. Arnett had headed OEO for a year, succeeding Howard Phillips after a court ruling that Phillips was serving illegally because his name was never submitted to the Senate for confirmation.

Gallegos, 51, from Denver, Colo., was in private law practive before becoming assistant director and general counsel of OEO on March 10, 1972.

Development Case to Appeals Court

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The State Court of Appeals will be asked to overturn a lower court decision that, if left standing, "casts a cloud" over the Environmental Conservation Department's power to define what land development is aesthetically and ecologically undesireable.

The department has filed a notice of appeal in Franklin County Court asking the high court to reverse sections of a May 16 ruling by the Appellate Division in Albany regarding the construction of Ton-Da-Lay, a second home development in the Adirondacks.

In a related development, Ton-Da-Lay Ltd., the company planning the 18,000-acre project, announced it had requested a meeting with state officials "to determine how the court's ruling can be implemented" and phase one of the project gain department approval.

The lower court upheld then-Commissioner Henry L. Diamond's denial on technical grounds of Ton-Da-Lay's plans for water and septic systems for the proposed community of 20,000 residents.

However, the Appellate Court said in a unanimous decision that Diamond had overstepped his authority in rejecting initial phases of the development "on the grounds of the aesthetic and ecological undesirability of the entire project."

A spokesman for the department said the decision "casts a cloud on our environmental impact proceedings," and, if left standing by the high court, "it could considerably narrow the powers of the commissioner in making decisions of this type."

An appeal of the ruling is being made "because we feel the decision requires clarification by the Court of Appeals," department counsel Langdon Marsh said.

Meanwhile, Louis H. Paparazzo, a spokesman for the Middlebury, Conn., firm planning the development, said a meeting had been requested with environmental Commissioner James L. Biggane "to determine what we must do to have our application approved."

Paparazzo said the denial of permits for water and septic systems for the recreational development was based "on purely technical grounds" which his company is prepared to satisfy.

"The justices performed a useful service by clearing the Adirondack atmosphere of the environmental abracadabra and ecological nonsense with which the Sierra Club had cluttered the Ton-Da-Lay hearings at Ray Brook," he said.

The commissioner's ruling had been made after 29 days of public hearings, during which the Sierra Club testified.

Six thousand pages of testimony and argument were filed with the Appellate Court in Ton-Da-Lay's appeal of Diamond's original denial of water and sewage permits, including briefs by the Sierra Club, the town of Altamont and Franklin County.

In its May 16 decision, the court said, "we are unable to unravel the purely environmental determinations of (the commissioner), enmeshed as they are in several findings ..."

But, the court said, "it should not be overlooked that other agencies and local authorities share the concern and competence of (the commissioner) to assure environmentally sound development."

The resort community planned by Ton-Da-Lay would be located on a tract of land in the Franklin County town of Altamont.

Simon in Tel Aviv

TEL AVIV (UPI) — U.S. Treasury Secretary William E. Simon began a series of meetings with Israeli leaders today to work out the details of "a new era" in economic relations between the United States and Israel.

Simon scheduled meetings with Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and other top Israeli officials to discuss U.S. economic aid promised by President Nixon during last month's Middle East trip.

The treasury secretary, who arrived in Tel Aviv Tuesday night for a three-day visit, told newsmen the United States "will be helpful in every way that we can help with assistance that's been so characteristic of our relations."

"Now we stand on the threshhold of a new era in these relations," he said.

Simon also scheduled meetings today with Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon, Finance Minister Yehoshua Rabinowitz and Commerce and Industry Minister Haim Bar Lev.

Simon's visit to Israel was the second stop on a four-country Middle East tour to work out the details of economic issues discussed by Nixon during the President's recent trip to the region.

He wound up three days of talks in Egypt by signing economic assistance agreements for war reconstruction projects, including reopening of the Suez Canal. The next stops will be Saudi Arabia and Kuwait..

Israel has asked for $1.5 billion-a-year in U.S. military aid over the next five years. Congress has earmarked $2.2 billion in military and economic assistance to Israel since last October's Middle East war.

Rabinowitz greeted Simon, saying the visit "illustrates the tangible unfolding of policies charted by President Nixon" and predicted the talks would "move speedily ahead in translating principles into reality."

During the Cairo visit, Finance Minister Abdel Aziz Hegazi called on the United States to give Egypt just as much American aid as Israel gets.

Window Cleaner Survives Fall From 12 Stories

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — A windowcleaner fell 12 stories from an apartment building, bounced off a parked car, then recuperated with a drink in the apartment manager's suite.

Norm Lawrence, 23, was working on the top floor of the Del Charro apartments Monday when a knot in the rope connecting his platform to a pulley came loose.

He hit the roof of a car parked near the side of the building and bounced from there to the ground. He suffered a cut on the head and a sore ankle and Lawrence said he believes the sore ankle came in the fall from the roof of the car to the ground.

Eleanor Bolam, manager of the building, said she gave Lawrence a drink and refused to allow him to return to work until Tuesday.

"I wanted to go back to work, but she sent me home," Lawrence said. "I felt like a school kid."

As he fell, Lawrence said, he saw he was going to hit pavement and used his feet to push himself away from the side of the building. The parked car has a dent about four feet long, three feet wide and seven or eight inches deep in the roof, he said.

Lawrence was worried mostly about whether the Insurance Corporation of B.C. will pay for the damage to the car.

"I really can't afford to pay for it myself. I'm just starting out in my business."

Mobile Home Park Discharge Topic of Ulster Hearing

By JON POWERS

TOWN OF ULSTER

The planned discharge of treated effluent from a proposed mobile home park in the Town of Ulster into a small stream that leads to the Esopus Creek was the topic of a Department of Environmental Conservation public hearing held in Lake Katrine Tuesday.

Jack Goldstein of Katrine Realty, Inc. has submitted plans for a 27-unit mobile home park off Old Stage Road in the Town of Ulster. Tentative plans call for the discharge of a maximum of 8.100 gallons of treated sewage per day into what was alternately described as an intermittent stream and a dry ditch.

Property owners who live along that stream, which they call Meadow Brook, contend that the sewage will have a detrimental effect on the fish and wildlife of the stream itself and neighboring ponds, as well as their own water supplies. They filed a letter of protest with the DEC, prompting Tuesday's hearing at the Ulster Town Hall.

Goldstein was the first to testify Tuesday. He briefly described the scope of his project, then noted that it would be possible to install a sewage discharge system that would not, in fact, discharge any effluent into the stream.

''It can be done, if necessary,'' said Goldstein, "naturally, we would prefer a simpler, less complicated system."

David N. Barnovitz, the attorney for the property owners told Goldstein that if he does intend to install a non-discharge system, the petitioners would likely reevaluate their objections. Goldstein, however, would not make any such commitment.

From Tuesday's testimony, it is apparent, in fact, that Goldstein has not determined what specific type of treatment system he will install. The protest appears based on the assumption by all parties that the sewage will be discharged into the stream.

Dean Palen, a field engineer with the Ulster County Health Department, testified that after Goldstein filed his initial application with the Health Department, senior sanitary engineer John Power conducted a field test of the site to determine the effluent limitations that will be allowed. Palen explained that once the limitations have been established, the treatment plant must be designed and operated to conform to those prescribed limitations.

But Barnovitz, in the course of questioning Palen, suggested repeatedly that fish and wildlife, as well as public safety, could be endangered even if those limitations are met.

Of particular concern to the property owners is the 30-day "grace period" that is permitted to allow the treatment plant to reach maximum efficiency, during which time the bacteriological limitations of the discharged sewage are often exceeded. And they also expressed concern over possible contamination of their wells should the system, at some time in the future, fail to operate properly.

Barnovitz also asked if the Health Department conducted tests to determine the relatiinship between the stream and water wells on property adjoining the stream. Palen said no such tests were made, and that it would be difficult to prove a correlation between the quality of the stream water and the quality of the drinking water anyway.

The stream in question runs from Lake Katrine (the lake, not the community) to another small stream that eventually empties into the Esopus Creek, some 7,000 feet away.

The hearing ended at 3 p.m. Tuesday. The DEC must now make a determination whether the discharged sewage would, in fact, pose hazards to fishlife and water supplies. It was indicated Tuesday that it may take the DEC four months to make the decision.

Woodstock Adds Service

By CARL GRAHAM

WOODSTOCK

The Woodstock Town Board Tuesday night unanimously passed an amendment to the town zoning law adding health service facilities to the list of permitted uses.

The amendment to Section 3A of the zoning law was the subject of a public hearing recently. Provisions for group medical offices, clinics, and other health facilities were not included in the ordinance previously.

The board will hold a public hearing on August 27 at 8 p.m. in the Woodstock Elementary School to consider a proposed sewage treatment and collection system for the town. The issue, will be on the ballot for a referendum vote in the November election. Supervisor Vern May said that the board planned to hold three or four public hearings on the matter at various places in the town before the referendum is held.

The board allocated $6,000 in revenue sharing funds in August, 1973, to finance a study of the town's sewage problems by Brinnier and Larios, the town engineers.

Woodstock, long known as an artistic center, proved the point again Tuesday night when the board voted a total of $5,250 in revenue sharing funds, most of it for various non-profit art associations. Receiving grants were the Guild of Craftsmen ($250 scholarships), Performing Arts of Woodstock ($250), Art Students League ($250 scholarship), and the Woodstock Artist Association ($3,000).

The remaining $1,500 went to the Woodstock Library to purchase a microfilming camera and equipment for record preservation.

Personnel of Woodstock Video, which videotapes town board meetings for distribution, suggested that their organization could use a grant, which would show state officials and foundation officers that they were getting local support and possibly help bring other grants. The board tabled a resolution to give Woodstock Video the remaining $80 of revenue sharing funds.

May said he had been assured that paving work on Route 375 would be completed so it would not interfere with the Library Fair on Friday, July 26.

May also noted that when the chain is up across the road people go swimming at their own risk in the swimming hole opposite the Garden Center. One boy swimming after hours had to be pulled from the water recently by a town employe. May noted that people using the place after hours were liable to arrest and fines.

May said the town board would meet with assessors to discuss the tax rolls.

''We realize there are iequities in the tax rolls,'' May said. "If everyone is assessed properly they pay less. We want to get everyone to pay what he should pay, and would like to get to that position as soon as possible."

May said board members want assessors to suggest possilbe means of correcting inequities and to let them know of their manpower needs in carrying out such a program.

May also announced he would set a date soon for a public hearing on sidewalks. The board has met privately with merchants affected by the sidewalk program, and wants to open the matter up for full public discussion, he said. The hearings will not be held until after the public hearings on sewage are completed.

Officer Suspended

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Sylvester Merante, officer in charge of the Matteawan State Hospital commissary, has been suspended without pay, according to state officials.

Merante's suspension followed a controversy over practices employed at the commissary which services inmates at the state institution that includes persons deemed criminally insane.

A state comptroller's report leaked to the press last week alleged that the commissary had been bilking patients with its pricing policy.

David Eno, a spokesman for the state Department of Correctional Services, said Tuesday night that Merante was suspended for departemental violation and not criminal charges. Eno said the department's findings would be turned over to the Dutchess County District Attorney for possible legal action when the investigation is completed.

Labor Troubles Continue Throughout Country

By United Press International

The country's labor troubles continued today with National Guardsmen patrolling two Ohio institutions in a state employes pay dispute and strikes which grounded National Airlines and crippled the copper industry.

A spokesman for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service said Tuesday, "For the week of July 15 we have 583 strikes involving 231,324 workers and 42 of those strikes involved units of 1,000 or more employes."

He said the figures substantially were higher than the same figures for the same week in any preceeding year back through 1959, the first year records were kept.

Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan ordered guardsmen Tuesday to the Lima State Hospital for the criminally insane minutes before a Ohio House-Senate committee reached agreement on a pay hike for state employes. Last Friday, guardsmen were ordered to the southern Ohio correctional facility in Lucasville.

Leaders of the four unions involved in the Ohio strike — which affects workers at prisons, mental hospitals, state liquor stores, highway department garages and other state facilities — surveyed members today for a reaction to the proposed pay hike.

While Ohio officials waited to see if the unions would be satisfied with the pay hike, National Airlines prepared for a long strike by machinists. The airlines placed 5,500 employes on furloughs as negotiations were recessed Tuesday at Naples, Fla., for two days. A federal mediator said negotiations would resume Thursday in Washington.

The layoff left only 900 supervisors on the payroll. The strike, which began Monday, grounded the company's domestic and transatlantic flights.

About 20,000 copper workers remained off the job at mines and smelters of five companies across the country. However, one-third of the strikers — employes of Kennecott Copper Corp., the nation's largest producer —were to return to their jobs Monday under a tentative agreement.

In Baltimore, policemen Tuesday approved the city's wage offer and an accompanying union promise to negotiate in behalf of officers who were fired during the strike. The wage offer provides for $1,300 to $2,500 increases July 1, 1975.

Elsewhere in the labor picture:

—Rhode Island Gov. Philip W. Noel fired about 50 guards who refused to report for the day shift at the state's adult correction institutions in Cranton. They balked at working after a fist fight Monday night between a guard and an inmate. Some guards returned to work despite a strike called by the Brotherhood of Correctional Officers.

—Negotiations resumed at Lordstown, Ohio, in an effort to end a strike of 7,800 United Auto Workers members who Friday shut down the country's only Chevrolet Vega production line. Another UAW strike has closed a GM assembly plant at St. Louis since June 28.

—About 3,000 members of the United Mine Workers staged a wildcat strike at Cambridge, Ohio, to protest stringent strip mine legislation under consideration in Congress.

—In Oakland, Calif., 700 flight attendants and cockpit crews for Trans International Airlines remained off their jobs in a contract dispute. The Airline operates charter flights.

—About 8,000 carpenters in northern California have been off the job for more than a month, and transit bus drivers serving routes between East Bay and San Francisco struck 16-days ago and no negotiations were scheduled.

Crushing Setback For Westmoreland

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI) — Retired Gen. William C. Westmoreland, his voice only a whisper because of laryngitis, blamed himself for his crushing defeat in Tuesday's South Carolina Republican gubernatorial primary.

"I was an inept candidate," said Westmoreland, former chief of staff of the Army and commander in Vietnam at the height of U.S. involvement. "I'm accustomed to structured organization, something like this is so nebulous."

Westmoreland was thrashed by state Sen. James Edwards, a Charleston oral surgeon who had hesitated about even getting into the race with one of the country's most well-known generals.

With most of the state's Republican precincts reporting, Edwards had 19,487 votes or 58 per cent of the total to 13,886 votes for Westmoreland.

He will face either Rep. W. J. Bryan Dorn or political newcomer Charles "Pug" Ravenel in the fall. The two Democrats will be in a run-off election in two weeks to decide the party nominee.

Ravenel, who spent more than $300,000 to make his name known, edged Dorn, dean of the South Carolina congressional delegation, in a seven-man Democratic race.

With most of the votes counted, Ravenel had 93,402 votes —33.99 per cent —to Dorn's 91,069, or 33.14 per cent.

Unlike Westmoreland, who often came across as a general addressing a private instead of a candidate pleading for a vote, Edwards had a gregarious campaign style.

Westmoreland's chances of victory were dimmed by a light voter turnout. Many old-line Republicans were miffed that it took Westmoreland until March to decide he was a Republican, and their votes for Edwards were magnified in the reduced voter turnout.

Westmoreland said he has no plans other than to "relax and learn how to play golf."

"I suppose this proves I'm not a politician, but I wanted to prove to this state and this party that there could be a two-party system," he said.

Henley Sentences Could Be 594 Years

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Elmer Wayne Henley, sentenced to 99 years in prison for each of the six boys he killed, could be eligible for parole by the time he is 30-years-old.

Henley, 18, Houston, was sentenced Tuesday for his part in the worst mass murder in modern American history in which 27 boys were lured to the home of a bachelor electrician where they were tortured sexually and killed.

Henley was convicted Monday of killing six of the 27 victims and sentenced to six 99-year terms Tuesday. Judge Preston Dian, who received the case on a change of venue, has yet to decide if the terms will run concurrently or consecutively.

"I'm just so happy," said Bettye Shirley, the mother of one of the victims, upon hearing the jury's sentence. "Thank the Lord. Thank the people. Thank the state. Thank anybody around."

The sentence was the harshest penalty possible under Texas law.

But the prosecuting attorney told the jury he regretted "you can not give the death penalty in this case."

Dial said he formally would sentence Henley Aug. 1 and would announce at that time whether the six sentences will run consecutively or concurrently.

But even if Dial sentences Henley to the maximum—594 years in prison—Henley could be eligible for parole by the time he's 30.

Attitudes Toward Nudity

Americans have long had, to put it in today's vernacular, a hangup about nudity. Of late there has been some evidence of change. Item: an easy-going public reaction to the "streaking" fad which enlivened the scene last spring. Item: a general attitude of tolerance toward those who have begun to indulge in nude sunning and swimming on a few public beaches.

The laughter that greeted the streakers was widely seen as a good sign. Few seemed to regard these capers as signalling any great moral crisis. This was so even among those who thought the streaking an unjustifiable offense to people who find such sophomoric exhibitionism in public places distasteful.

Public nudity is by no means universally accepted as yet. The judge in Lakeland, Fla., who fined a couple of streakers and said "I believe society expects people to keep their clothes on in public" expressed a common view. A Los Angeles city councilman is pushing for an ordinance prohibiting beach nudity.

And then there is the case of the young public school teachers' aide in Greendale, Wis. She thinks she may have to give up her job because of problems that might arise from her having been featured in a nude magazine layout. It seems some of the women in the community were upset about it.

We find one remark by this young woman of interest: "We have our own private lives, and what you do is your own business." Nothing yet on how she equates privacy with appearing in the buff in a nationally circulated magazine.

Medical Care

We now seem to be approaching the moment of truth with regard to national health insurance. The consensus among observers is that some form of it will be enacted by Congress not long hence. When that happens — or rather, when the new national health insurance plan takes effect—there will almost certainly be even greater pressure than ever on our supply of physicians.

This prospect makes it all the more important that the medical profession deal constructively with problems arising from the presence of many thousands of foreign-trained doctors in this country. In particular we have in mind reports that some are practicing medicine without a license.

Apparently this does not apply to the bulk of the foreign medical graduates, who are now entering the United States at the rate of 7,000 annually. Such doctors must pass special examinations before they can be certified to practice in this country, and many do so.

It is a matter of concern, however, that many also are being permitted by hospitals to practice without licenses — in some cases even without supervision. These are the findings of a study conducted by a team of five American physicians. Having surveyed about 4,000 foreign-trained doctors, the study team concluded that control of medical care in the United States presents serious problems.

An account of this study in the New York Times sums up the situation in the hospitals as follows: "Although many of the uncertified doctors were officially hired as laboratory technicians or assistants, they are making diagnostic and therapeutic decisions, the study shows. Some perform surgery or give anesthesia. Others practice psychiatry or read X-rays."

This is of concern for two reasons. The obvious one is that in order to maintain high medical care standards it is essential that all doctors be properly certified for practice. This is particularly important in the case of doctors educated abroad, since the adequacy of training in some foreign medical schools has long been questioned. The medical profession should take steps to assure that hospitals no longer permit uncertified doctors to care for their patients.

Buttoned-Up Government

A check of federal agency offices in Washington found most men wearing neckties despite an order to keep thermostats in government buildings no lower than 78. It seems like nonsense. But then maybe the ties subconsciously help to keep the bureaucrats convinced that what they do is somehow more important than what those casually dressed fellows in the hinterland do.

Perhaps they need this bolstering of the ego. Or maybe it's just a habit. Either way, we'd be happier to see the bureaucrats go tieless in the summer heat. The government's too buttoned-up as it is.

High Priced Watergate Autographs

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — What's in a name? Plenty, if you're collecting or selling Watergate autographs, a fad that may soon rival digging up old Captain Marvel comics or Nazi war souvenirs.

A prize bargain in this new hobby is an envelope signed by indicted ex-Attorney General John Mitchell, and bearing a first-day-of-issue Law and Order stamp. It's only $15.

Souvenir Nixon inaugural envelopes signed in happier days by White House aides H. R. Haldeman or John Ehrlichman, cost $25. Rose Mary Woods' name on an envelope commemorating the President's trip to Russia, goes for $10. Her signature on an 18-minute blank piece of tape would probably bring a fortune.

A Bill of Rights stamped envelope signed by Senate Watergate chief counsel, Sam Dash, costs $8. Unaccountabley, one signed by his pipe-smoking minoirty colleague, Fred Thompson, brings $10.

An autograph by former Commerce Secretary and Nixon fund raiser Maurice Stans, recently acquitted in a felony case involving world securities trader Robert Vesco, costs $15. It's on a World Trade stamp cover. That is also the price of a Nixon inaugural envelope signed by the man Nixon forced out as Attorney General, Elliot Richardson.

An inaugural cover bearing the signature of the President's wheeler-dealer brother, Don, costs $10. Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, and his predecessor Archibald Cox's signatures on covers also fetch $10.

An autographed photo of the first Nixon cabinet, starring disbarred former Vice President Spiro Agnew, costs $200. An a picture of Supreme Court justices, bearing their autographs, is a bargain at $150 now that they are deciding whether Nixon can refuse to give up evidence.

Two off-beat items bring premiums. One is a 1971 letter for $35 signed by astronaut Donald Slayton saying that "... I know of no plans to send the President into space in 1976 . . ." Another is a signed photo of My Lai murderer Lt. William Calley, which goes for $75.

Footnote: Watergate signatures cited are priced by J. Fricelli. Other dealers have different rates, but all guarantee authenticity. Actually, in Watergate Washington, secretaries often forge their busy bosses names to autograph requests.

NO-FUN FUR: The nation's biggest seal skin fur processor, Fouke Fur Co., is lobbying so hard for permission to bring in baby seal skins from South Africa that its Congressman, James Mann, D-S.C., jokingly told a recent visitor, "I represent the Fouke Fur Company."

Also seeking a ten-year exemption for Fouke on the ban against bringing in the brutally slain baby seals is Sen, Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. An enthusiastic segregationist himself, Thurmond sees no problem in continuing the seal trade with segregationist South Africa. Fouke brought in 50,000 of the skins last year.

Another South Carolinian, Commerce Secretary Frederick Dent, claims impartiality. But in fact, Commerce has named two reputedly pro-slaughter members to a panel studying the environmental impact of the seal trade. The tiny seals are first clubbed, then knifed to death.

Fouke, meanwhile, has advised Commerce that if it cannot get permission to import the baby pelts from South Africa, it will have to jack up its rates for the government-owned Alaskan seals it processes. This government program brings the Treasury $1.8 million annually.

POLLSTER UNDECIDED: One of Watergate's unanswered questions is who was behind three break-ins at the office of pollster Louis Harris shortly after his survey showed President Nixon's 1970 invasion of Cambodia was highly unpopular among college students.

White House advisor Alexander Heard had picked Harris for the poll, which showed 71 per cent of the students gave Nixon a negative rating and 69 per cent had "serious doubts" about the invasion. Harris tells us "files were strewn around." Although he cannot prove the White House "plumbers" had anything to do with it, he is "very suspicious."

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Small Business Administrator Tom Kleppe not only has a chauffeur-driven limousine, he had a chauffeur-driven golf cart at a recent outing. The SBA, in a sudden press release after we inquired, insisted the chauffeur helped Kleppe on his own, not the taxpayers' time . . . Salty old Navy Adm. Inside Report

Hussein's New Power

By ROWLAND EVANS and
ROBERT NOVAK

AMMAN, Jordan — King Hussein, whose war against Palestinian guerrillas four years ago made him the black sheep of the Arab world, is now on a crest of personal influence, backed by quiet but heavy American support, in the pan-Arab political battle to regain lost territories from Israel, including the crucial west bank of his own kingdom.

While Palestinian nationalist Yassir Arafat insists that only he can represent the "Palestinian people" in the creation of an independent Palestinian state on the Israeli-occupied west bank, it is Hussein who for the moment is in the cat-bird seat.

The doughty King's credentials are becoming clearer every day. As both he and his prime minister, Zaid Rifai, carefully explain, there is no such thing as one "Palestinian people" but at least four different "Palestinian peoples." Each has its own special interest and background.

There is, first, the east bank Palestine within Hussein's own kingdom of Jordan, some 800,000 strong including refugees from the west bank, a very large percentage of whom are now integrated into Jordan's economy. Next is the Palestine on the west bank of the Jordan River, numbering about 650,000, who have been under Israeli occupation since the 1967 war.

Still another "Palestinian people" are the 500,000 refugees now living squalid lives in the refugee camps of Syria and Lebanon on a bare subsistence of a few cents a day. Finally, there is the Palestine of Gaza, the small, fertile strip along the Mediterranean between Israel and the Egyptian Sinai peninsula.

One could also add the Palestine within Israel itself — 450,000 Arabs who kept their homes and jobs after Israel's creation as a state 25 years ago and hold Israeli citizenship (but not real equality with Israeli Jews).

It requires no mental gymnastics to perceive that Arafat's claim as "sole representative" of the Palestinian people is questionable. Indeed, that claim rests primarily with those Palestinians whose outrage over Israel's successive territorial acquisitions led them into Arafat's Palestinian Liberation Organization along with other more radical nationalist-terrorist outfits. As a ranking Western ambassador told us: "We've all been conned into thinking that the PLO really does represent the Palestinian people."

Here on the east bank of his kingdom, evidence is available to butress Hussein's claim to represent more Palestinains than Arafat, even though Hussein himself is not Palestinian. One example: of the more than 50,000 Palestinian nationalists who fought Hussein when he drove the guerrillas out of Jordan in 1970 and 1971, far more than half are now living peacefully here with jobs and families.

Two of the 1970 anti-Hussein leaders, Ibrahim Bakr and Munif Razzas — both of them west bank refugees — have been pardoned. Amman is full of rehabilitated former enemies of the king and the Bedouin leaders of his army.

Moreover, Hussein's 1972 proposal to the west bank Palestinians, now under Israeli occupation, for a united Arab kingdom — a semi-autonomous west bank linked to Hussein's east bank — conforms with centuries of political and economic life in the rich Jordan River valley. During 400 years of Turkish rule, the Jordan River was not a boundary but the natural agricultural center of a unified life on both its banks.

The west bank city of Nablus for example, was a provincial capital in the Turkish empire which included the east bank city of Salt under its administrative control. Today, despite 25 years of Israeli independence and 7 years of Israeli occupation of the entire west bank, there is virtually no east bank Palestinian family without relatives across the river on the west bank.

Accordingly, an "independent Palestinian state" on the west bank — the political objective of Arafat — appears historically dubious. There is, moreover, one additional and compelling fact that elevates Hussein: he, not Arafat, has the only claim to negotiate Israeli withdrawal from the west bank.

The main purpose of the Geneva conference is to implement United Nations resolution 242, calling simply for return of territories seized by Israel in 1967, not final political settlement. Since the west bank was seized from Hussein, not Arafat, Hussein is the man to see in Geneva.

With his truncated east bank kingdom now in the midst of an economic boom and his relations with both Syrian president Hafez Assad and Egyptian president Anwar Sadat turning from sour to sweet, Hussein is preparing for the critical territorial struggle with Isreal, ready to convert possible success into a glittering asset for use in deciding the eventual political dispostiion of the west bank. But that is the subject for a future column.

The Office Overpowers the Man

The American people should restudy the office of President of the United States; its power, its restraints, its use and abuse. The popular concept is that the man in the Oval Office is more than a prime minister and less than a king.

This is an ironic misconception. The Founding Fathers, having rebelled successfully against a king, were almost unanimous in their desire to create a weak Chief Executive.

They fashioned three regal prisoners: one for the President; one for the Congress; one for the Supreme Court. Of the three, the presidency was the most confining because the man in office was not given the power to originate a law. Neither could he conclude a treaty, make war or appoint ranking officers in his own department without the "advice and consent" of one or both arms of the Congress.

The people, it was thought, could best rule themselves by electing local politicians to the House of Representatives. Men like James Madison, Benjamin Franklin, George Washington, John Jay and Alexander Hamilton were determined, through the instrument of the new Constitution, to weaken the presidency to the status of one who executes the will of the people.

They distrusted the President before they found the first one. And yet, when Alexander Hamilton began to write "The Federalist," which is still the best treatise on U.S. government, he felt misgivings about the ability of the people to govern through Congress.

"It is a just observation," he wrote, "that the people commonly INTEND the public good. This often applies to their very errors . . . They know from experience that they sometimes err; and the wonder is that they so seldom err . . ."

The people can and will be fooled by popular parasites who would rather rule the nation than execute the will of the Congress. History shows in stark silhouette that the difference between thieves in Congress and thieves on the street is that the gentlemen under the dome of the Capitol steal in the name of the law.

Except for Franklin Roosevelt, Presidents seldom fight the Supreme Court. He tried to enlarge it; pack it with his own men, he lost; others, like Dwight Eisenhower, felt that high office was a reward and would rather have reigned than ruled.

When Richard Nixon campaigned against John F. Kennedy in 1960, he favored reducing the power of the President: "We need a President who will resist the temptation to give the appearance of leadership, when, actually, his speaking out rashly may set off a chain of circumstances that will be disastrous to the whole world."

Alexander Hamilton went a step further: ". . . the people are reminded that the person of the President has no more inviolability than the least one of themselves; upon impeachment, trial, conviction and removal from office, he would be liable to prosecution and punishment in the ordinary course of the law."

Thus, almost 200 years ago, it was decided to set up one man who would be elected by all the people and who, if he perpetrated misdeeds, would face double jeopardy — a finding of guilt by the Senate and a second trial for the same offenses in a common court.

And yet the will of the Founding Fathers has been thwarted throughout history. The President has become more and more personally powerful. Almost all of them arrogated to themselves the power to give, and the power to take away.

It is common knowledge that many bills do not originate in the Congress. White House lawyers draw them up on orders from the President. A liaison man carries the perfected product to the Hill, there to hand it to the chairman of a House committee for endorsement or rejection.

I have written five books about Presidents — one will be published in September — but it was Dwight Eisenhower who impressed me with a wry statement: "Do you realize that there are 154 government agencies and bureaus which are responsible to me, not to Congress? Do you know that it is impossible to recall offhand the names of the heads of those agencies, much less what the heck they are doing?"

Year by year, the men in the White Hosue have, in an almost insidious manner, arrogated more and more power to themselves. Each of them did it in the name of patriotism and wrapped himself in the American flag; but each, no matter how wise, was only a solitary man.

The office has grown much too big for anyone . . .

Letters to the Editor

Sheriff's Group

Editor, The Freeman:

The newly formed group calling themselves former deputy sheriff's association is strictly a political movement aimed at unseating Sheriff William B. Martin. It is a shame this sudden burst of courage was not available when these politicians were deputy sheriffs.

I defy any member of this political group, including the president or his wife (who was at the first meeting to talk for her husband), to swear under oath that this political association is anything more than to raise funds for the campaign of Thomas Mayone, who is also a member.

When has it ever been un-American or shameful to march in a parade, escort a funeral or attend Bar Mitzvahs.

Sheriff William B. Martin is a policeman, not a politician. Therefore, it is very doubtful if he ever will be available for any political hogwash like yours. Sheriff Martin still maintains a clean record even after three investigations which were prompted by a few key county politicians who are trying to gain control of the Sheriff's Department.

Yours truly,
THOMAS KRUM

Plea Bargaining

Editor, The Freeman:

In the July 8th issue of the Daily Freeman there appeared a full page advertisement by the Ulster Businessmens' and Professional Association entitled, "Let the Punishment Fit the Crime". This Association should be commended for their interest and public spirit.

Unfortunately what the ad implied but omitted was, Let the Punishment Fit the Crime, NOT THE CHARGE. Plea bargaining should and must come to an end if we are ever to retain any degree of law and order.

Our law enforcement agents risk their lives in apprehending criminals only to see these perpetrators slapped on the hands and put back on the street to laugh at the enforcement agencies and society.

The national crime rate is constantly rising and there is very little we, the average citizen, can do about the national rate. However, maybe if we took action on a small scale, that being the crime in Ulster County, we might be effective. We must insist that our District Attorney not go for reduced charges and vote for Judges and Justice of the Peace who are capable and willing to Let the Punishment Fit the Crime.

I support the Ulster Businessmens' and Professional Association in their action and sincerely hope all the people in Ulster County will stand behind this group so Ulster County can once again be a safe community in which to live.

Sincerely yours,
DORIS E. MULVIN

Wrong Target

Editor, The Freeman:

This letter is in regard to the article entitled "A UFO Over Hasbrouck Park" which appeared in the July 9 "Daily Freeman". That article relates the story of Patrolmen Ramsell and Wallace's visual contact with an Unidentified Flying Object (UFO) (Ha Ha).

It is not that we don't believe in the possibility of extraterrestial intelligence. On the contrary, we assume that most intelligence would be extraterrestial. However, we too "sure would like to know what kind of creature it was in there" that came millions of miles through space to Kingston, when New York City is only 2 hours away on the Thruway and there is good food and dancing there.

Respectfully yours,

No Shows

Editor, The Freeman:

I am 10 years old and I would like you to know that there are no movies for children anywhere in Kingston or close around it. It is not fair, because us kids just got out of school. So what are we supposed to do on Saturday or Sunday, or any other day?

Thank you,

Impeachment

Editor, The Freeman:

Is it not time for all good men to come to the aid of their country? Is it not time for all good Senators and Congressmen to speak out with courage and conviction, with dedication and sincerity, to be able to look into the eyes of their constituents and say "We have demanded the impeachment of the President on grounds of immoral leadership, abusing the powers of the Presidency and perhaps worst of all, giving the American people a hopeless feeling of utter distrust in their government."

Or could it be that many of these good Senators and Congressmen have a few of their own personal skeltons to hide, preventing them from speaking out on this grave issue. Or perhaps their prime interest is in the up and coming elections which divert much of their time and energy in being re-elected. Surely, in all of Washington, their must be one great statesman of true courage and integrity who could put this great nation back on the road of moral leadership and give to the American people once again, trust in their government.

And when our two hundredth anniversary as a nation comes about in two years, all will be happy and proud to be an American.

BEN MARCHETTI

Special People

Editor, The Freeman:

I would like to comment on an article entitled, "Listed in Hereditary Register." In it a quote states:

The Register "recognizes that across the length and breadth of this nation there are certain families who generation after generation have furnished leaders to the State, church, armed forces, the professions and business community. These families form an aristocracy of merit which, by virtue of its continuity, is hereditary in fact, if not in law. Such a tradition of service is vital to civilized society and should be recognized."

We are approaching the Bicentennial of this country. The celebration marks the anniversary of a war which was fought to establish a democratic system of government in which all are created equal under the law. It appears as if the descendants of these men and women feel they should be recognized as people who are better than the rest of us.

Sincerely,
DESTA S. MONACHELLI

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Oppressive Law

Editor, The Freeman:

One Hundred Ninety-eight years ago last Thursday, on our Nation's Birth Certificate, the hallowed Declaration of Independence, our Inspired Founding Fathers declared:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness — That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness."

The Government we are concerned with now is our Ulster County Legislature. For this Body to even consider, let alone urge for adoption, a Law such as Local Law No. 31974 (regulating second-hand merchandise), indicates they have long forgotten or disregarded the lessons they should have learned and remembered from History!

This most tyrannical and oppressive law should be utterly defeated, and if it is not, then the legislators who adopt it, should as our Declaration of Independence states, "BE ABOLISHED" as a legislative group, by being turned out of office at their next election!

Tempers at this time perhaps run hot, but not yet run to revolution. We still have and MUST use the POWER OF THE BALLOT.

No decent or honest citizen, shop-keeper and businessman would fail to cooperate with the police in finding, recovering stolen articles and bring criminals to justice. However, when we have paid, trained police, it is their adopted vocation to do THAT job for which they are so hired and NOT the taxpayers to do instead, by oppressive, massive and expensive record keeping. Good police work consisting of servalence, plain old-fashioned "leg-work" and being seen on the job, will cut crime if consistently and quickly followed by the appropriate justice being meted out to ALL convicted criminals.

No plea-bargaining by our Chief Prosecuting Attorney, no lace-handkerchief sentences for the prepetrators! Imposition of MAXIMUM SENTENCES for the crimes committed will insure the safety of all good citizens in their homes, businesses and person and of all their property!

Inflatiion Afflicting All Nations

By United Press International

Raw material shortages and booming oil prices have made inflation the number one affliction of nations around the world, battering dollar, franc and rupee alike as well as toppling governments from Europe to South America.

The 10-peso ($1) taxi ride a year ago in Argentina is the 30-peso ($3) cab fare today. The tiny steak that cost 1,500 yen ($5) in Tokyo last year now sells for 1,800 yen ($6).

In Denmark, soaring apartment rents have given rise to the "midnight flit" — families skipping out of lodgings in the dead of night to escape the rent collector.

The inflation rate, which averaged 4.9 per cent in industrialized nations during the previous decade, has climbed to 10.7 per cent in the United States and 22 per cent in Japan. Cambodia's rate is 300 per cent and Chile's is a world record 508 per cent.

The basic cause of the price spiral has been an increase in the amount of money and credit available at a time when shortages in basic commodities prevent an equal rise in the amount of goods.

The major oil-exporting nations cut production and the price of petroleum zoomed from $25 billion last year to $100 billion this year, setting off a major drain on the finances of oil-buying countries.

The runaway inflation affects rich and poor, luxuries and necessities.

"I'm catching it at both ends of my life," said a retired Londoner who grew up in pre-Hitler Germany when the mark collapsed because of inflation and plunged the country into a turmoil that brought the Nazis to power.

"When I was young there was the terrible inflation of the Weimar Republic," he said. "Now that I'm old, I have this."

Last April, a Saigon rickshaw driver could no longer support his wife and five children when the price of rice went up 100 per cent and cooking fuel rose 300 per cent. He burned himself to death in a downtown square.

Sardines, Portugal's staple diet, have doubled in price since the army coup three months ago. The cost of rice has climbed in Thailand and Cambodia.

Quality wines cost so much in France that even Parisians have stopped buying, sending the Bordeaux and Champagne wine trades into a 30 per cent sales tailspin.

Israel's rate of inflation was 21.1 per cent in the first three months of 1974 and has been closer to 31 per cent since last October's war. A pound of beef that cost $3.50 before the war goes for $4.50 now.

In Beirut, where prices rose 36 per cent last year, bank clerk Mohammed Suleiman moaned, "How can I feed my wife and two children on my salary of $347-a-month with prices going up and up?. I have to take another job to survive."

Efforts to halt the price spiral vary from country to country, with each government trying to avoid tipping over into recession or the economic "final solution" — depression.

France and Italy have hiked taxes. Brazil is trying an "index" that increases wages and pensions when prices climb.

Union agitation in Britain helped oust the Conservatives and install a Labor government. A military coup in Chile toppled the Marxist government of Salvatore Allende when massive inflation undercut his middle class support.

Funeral Collection For 'Baby Doll' Cowan

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — There's a box set aside at Sadie's Cafe in downtown Peoria where old friends of Sarah "Baby Doll" Cowan can pitch in for her funeral.

Miss Cowan, who died Monday at age 73, had practiced the world's oldest profession until just before her death.

Peoria County Coroner Horace Payton said Miss Cowan, who claimed to have been a prostitute for 54 years, died in bed of a sudden attack of bronchial pneumonia, possibly resulting in a mild heart attack.

He said one elderly man who wished to remain anonymous had volunteered to start the funeral fund with a $200 donation.

"I met Baby Doll once," Payton said. "I walked into a combination restaurant and pool hall across from the city jail and we were both having coffee. The man who ran the place asked if I'd ever met Sarah Cowan. I said 'No.' and he said, 'Tell the gentleman what you do for a living.' She told me right out

"He said, 'Tell the coroner what you say when you go to the post office to file your income every three months so you can get Social Security.' She said the same thing. She never did have any other profession."

A spokesman for Wilton's mortuary, where Miss Cowan's body was taken pending funeral arrangements, said her old neighborhood friends were "pitching money into the box" at Sadie's Cafe near the small frame home where she lived.

Viet Cong Troops Attack Village

SAIGON (UPI) — Viet Cong troops today attacked a small village only five miles from the biggest city in the Mekong Delta, killing or wounding almost the entire home guard, military sources said.

The military command reported that Communist troops also attacked South Vietnam's two most important highways Tuesday, killing, wounding or kidnaping 10 civilians.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien said in one daylight attack Viet Cong troops opened fire on a bus carrying civilians on Highway 4 in the Mekong Delta, killing two and wounding five. When the bus stopped, Communist troops kidnaped one of the passengers.

Military sources reported Communist troops fired a rocket into a bus on Highway 1, 318 miles north of Saigon, killing one person and wounding two others.

South Vietnamese field reports did not indicate whether the Communist force captured Thanh An village, 75 miles southwest of Saigon.

Thanh An, a hamlet of only 700, is five miles southeast of Can Tho, the largest city and administrative headquarters in the populous Mekong Delta.

The small defense force suffered 19 killed and 16 wounded and initial field reports said five Communists were killed during the fighting.

The attack marked the fourth consecutive day of heavy battling around South Vietnam, military spokesmen said. The most significant attacks have been in the delta area.

Explosion Rocks Tower of London

LONDON (AP) — An explosion today rocked the tower of London, one of Britain's most historic monuments, and Scotland Yard said 20 persons were injured.

Scotland Yard suspected a terrorist bomb caused the blast. A spokesman said police had no confirmation of this.

Irish terrorists set off an explosion June 17 that damaged the houses of Parliament and injured seven persons.

Ambulances went to the scene of the medieval fortress where England's Tudor kings had their enemies beheaded.

The Tower, actually a castle on the River Thames in east London, also houses the crown jewels of Queen Elizabeth II.

"There was a terrific bang and a huge column of smoke rose over the Tower. There are police cars, fire engines and ambulances everywhere," a Port of London Authority official said.

The area around the Tower was crowded with tourists.

A shopgirl said the explosion appeared to come from the ground floor level of the Tower, built 900 years ago by William the Conquerer.

It was there that the unfortunate wives of Henry VIII los their heads.

Role in Movie, TV Job Ahead for John Lindsay

PARIS (AP)—Former New York Mayor John V. Lindsay will play a U.S. senator in a film about Arab hijackers and next year will become a television commentator, it was announced Tuesday.

A spokesman for producer Otto Preminger announced Lindsays' role in the film "Rosebud" being shot here and in Israel. In New York, an ABC-TV spokesman said the 52-year-old former mayor will be a weekly commentator beginning Jan. 6 on a morning show, "AM America."

Lindsay, in St. Malo, France, said he is expected to start filming his part in Paris next week.. Preminger flew on to Tel Aviv to prepare for sequences to be shot in Israel.

The onetime Democratic presidential aspirant will play a senator whose daughter is among five girls on the luxury yacht "Rosebud" hijacked by Palestinian terrorists. The movie is from a novel of the same name by French journalist Paul Bonnecarrere and Ernest Joan.

"Preminger chased me all over the continent trying to talk me into playing this part," Lindsay said. "I kept saying 'no' and he kept making new offers which I refused. Finally, for the hell of it, I gave him a price that I was sure would be too high for him - and he sent me a cable accepting it. "I really didn't want to do it, but since coming to Europe I ran out of money a few times and that helped make up my mind," said Lindsay, who's been traveling in Europe with his family the past six months.

Neither the Preminger spokesman nor Lindsay would reveal how much the role would pay.

ABC also would not say how much Lindsay will be paid for his TV work. A spokesman said Lindsay will conduct interviews and comment "on a wide range of topics" on the two-hour program.

Houdini's Box Missing From Magic Hall of Fame

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (UPI) — A box designed by the famed Harry Houdini to test the power of "psychics" is missing from the Houdini Magical Hall of Fame in this Canadian resort city.

Museum officials said the "$31,000 reward" box was stolen from its sealed glass display case, apparently on July 5.

Henry Muller, president of the museum, said the box is one of the museum's most intriguing and valued exhibits, but the box itself is more valuable than the cost of the contents.

Developed by the late magician during his crusade against fraudulent mediums, or so-called "psychic's," the box contains a pencil which is suspended over a blank pad of paper by an elastic harness. Several straps seal the box.

A committee has offered $31,000 to anyone who can cause the pencil to move and write Houdini's secret message on the pad without breaking the seals.

Museum General Manager David Hagarty says many people have expressed the desire to attempt the feat but all have backed down in the end.

"We have had an awful lot of people that have indicated a desire to attempt it," he said "but they back off because we require the posting of a $1,000 bond before they can attempt it."

Daily Lottery

New, daily drawings in the New York State Lottery will continue through July 31, except on Sundays. The top, daily prize is $500. The regular weekly drawings will continue as scheduled with the first prize remaining at $50,000.

DEMOCRATS PLAN DINNER — Plans for the New Paltz Democratic Club Dinner Saturday at which candidate for lieutenant governor, Mario Cumo and Rockland County District Attorney Robert R. Meehan will be guest speakers are being made by (L) Mrs. Alton Krom, Mrs. Verlin Hoberecht and Dr. John Hain. The affair will be held at 6 p. m. at Apple Valley Ranch, South Ohioville Road.

Mario Cuomo Set as Speaker

NEW PALTZ

Candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, Mario Cuomo, a prestigious New York lawyer and skilled negotiator, will be a featured speaker at the New Paltz Democratic Club's summer buffet to be held Saturday at 6 p.m. at Apple Valley Ranch (formerly Villa Lapani) on South Ohioville Road, New Paltz.

Robert Meehan, Rockland County District Attorney, Democrat candidate for state Attorney general, will also address the dinner guests, according to Mrs. Verlin L. Hoberecht, dinner coordinator.

The dinner will be served in the recently redecorated Paddock Room, according to Mrs. Alton Krom who is in charge of site arrangements and Dr. John Hain, chairman of the club.

"The office of lieutenant governor should be full time and exhaustive," according to Cuomo who thinks the lieutenant governor should also do "more than practice ritual and attend board meetings."

Born June 15, 1932 in Queens County, he graduated summa cum laude in 1953 from St. John's College and cum laude in 1956 from St. John's Law School. He is a partner in the law firm of Corner, Finn, Cuomo and Charles in Brooklyn and Garden City, L.I.

Since 1963, Cuomo has represented various community groups in a variety of matters arising out of the relationship of city government to the community. The ensuing litigation was invariably accompanied by an intensive study of the city operations concerned such as budget,, site selection, Board of Estimate, City Planning Commission and the like. The most recent and well publicized of these matters have been the Corona and Forest Hills low income housing controversies. Cuomo's scaling down proposal was eventually adopted by the city.

He was cited by the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce as Outstanding Young Man in the Profession in 1963.

Meehan was raised in Suffern and is a graduate of Colgate University and Rutgers Law School and served during the Korean War.

In 1965, he was the first Democrat to be elected district attorney in Rockland County in 54 years, winning by 200 votes. He was reelected in 1968 by 9,00 votes and again in 1972 with more than 72 per cent of the vote over his GOP opponent.

He was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for state attorney general in the June 1970 primary and although he lost, he carried 41 of 62 counties in the state.

He is a member of the Joint Federal Strike Force against Organized Crime for the Southern District of New York, New York State Task Force against Organized Crime, Council for Narcotic Enforcement of the Metropolitan Regional Council. He is chairman of the board of directors of the New York State District Attorneys Association, having served as president of that association 1970-71, and as a member of the Executive Committee for four years prior to that. He personally drafted six pieces of legislation which are now the law of the State of New York, including the law requiring that district attorneys work full time.

Angell: 'Congress Is a Full-Time Job'

POUGHKEEPSIE

Nicholas B. Angell, who is running as a Democrat for Congress in the 25th Congressional District, took a stand today against the practice of law, even on a part time basis, by lawyers while they are serving as members of Congress. Additionally, Angell pledged, upon being elected to that body, to resign from the law firm in which he is currently a partner. He seeks the seat now held by GOP Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr.

"Being a congressman is more than a full-time job," said the 42 year-old Putnam County attorney. "No one can do a conscientious job in Congress and practice law as well."

"Additionally, in the past we have witnessed a tremendous loss of public confidence in elected officials. There is no question in my mind that a congressman who practices law must sooner or later run into some form of conflict of interest between his obligations to his clients and his duties as an elected official. The only way to eliminate public doubt, in the face of this potential conflict, is to prohibit the practice of law by congressmen. Bluntly, this step would go a long way towards eliminating the widely held impression that politcians are crooks," he said.

Angell is presently a partner in the firm of Chadbourne, Parke, Whiteside and Wolff.

"This Watergate year has seriously reduced public confidence in elected officials," he said. "Therefore, it seems to me that the elected congressman should not only remove all temptations from his own path, but more importantly, he should be prohibited from practicing law, simply because the fact that he continues to practice raises questions as to his ethical conduct in the minds of the public," Angell said.

"Whatever rationale there may have been for permitting congressmen to continue the practice of law must have been based upon economic considerations. However, a $42,500 congressional salary would seem to eliminate that consideration," he continued.

"When elected, I shall make it my business to act positively, whether by introducing legislation or by backing existing bills, to ensure the passage of legislation which will prohibit congressmen from practicing law while in office. Now, I call upon all practicing lawyers who seek office, whether as incumbents or challengers, to pledge, as I have in this matter that:

— When elected, I will sever all connections with the practice of law (which, in my case, means resignation from the firm of which I am currently a partner); and — When elected, I shall work for legislation prohibiting the practice of law by all congressmen while they are in office.

Missing Boys Found Dead

WARRENSBURG, N.Y. (AP) — Two boys missing since they went hiking were found dead today at the base of 300-foot-high cliffs, the Warren County sheriff's office said.

James Pandolfo of the Town of Thurman and Jimmy L. Gould of New York City, both 12, were last seen at noon Tuesday in a heavily wooded area near here.

Members of a search crew found the boys' bodies this morning about 15 miles northwest of the Village of Lake George.

"As far as we can tell, they fell off some ledges," a deputy said.

Candidate States: 'Leave Press Alone'

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y. (AP) — Rep. Hugh L. Carey has called for less governmental interference with the news media.

Carey, a Democratic gubernatorial candidate, told the annual meeting of the New York State Broadcasters Association Tuesday night that one way public officials and those who seek high office can protect freedom of the press "is to let you alone; to avoid the shackles of government intrusion that, however well intentioned, only eat away at the First Amendment."

"You are licensed by the government and while the First Amendment tells you that you are free to say what you please, the FCC (Federal Communications Commission) and the courts and the White House transcripts tell a different story," Carey said.

The Brooklyn congressman also urged government to "open itself up to scrutiny." He said New York State's freedom of information law, which takes effect Sept. 1, "is a step forward, but it is not enough.

"Our legislature still shuts itself off from public inspection, there is no daily record of floor debate, committee meetings are often completely closed with no agenda and no record of vote," Carey said.

He said if elected governor he intends to "to fight for legislative as well as executive reform, so that by better knowing what is happening in Albany we can get better representation."

Carey faces a Sept. 10 primary battle with Howard Samuels, who received party support at last month's state convention.

Earlier Tuesday, Jack Sable, commissioner of the New York State Division of Human Rights, urged the broadcasters to work with his commission to eliminate discrimination in employment practices.

Sable said that no government body "should have censorship powers over your programming. At the same time, your powerful influence on public opinion requires you to promote harmonious human relations."

At a panel discussion on women in broadcasting, Dr. Florence Monroe, assistant administrative director of WNYE-FM-TV Brooklyn urged the broadcasters to help change the image of women in the media.

Dr. Monroe said there are two predominate images of women in the media today—as sex object and as a "dumb housewife."

Dr. Monroe asked the broadcasters to represent women "honestly as responsible, industrious and capable individuals — capable of many roles in society."

Several Cattle Deaths From Anthrax Outbreak

MARLIN, Tex. (UPI) — An outbreak of anthrax which killed more than 100 cattle in East Texas may have already spread into Oklahoma. National Guardsmen and animal inspectors today manned quarantine roadblocks in Texas, and Oklahoma Gov. David Hall ordered a halt to the movment of all cattle in his state.

Officials said eight to 10 cows died Tuesday at the Oklahoma City stockyards, and most of them were confirmed as victims of the contageous disease.

Anthrax can infect humans who come in contact with diseased animals or eat contaminated meat. Penicillin is an effective treatment for anthrax in humans, but the disease is almost always fatal to animals.

In Texas, a spokesman in Falls County said 175 cows died of the disease and were destroyed. Cows that die of anthrax must be cremated within 24 hours. Ranchers dug pits, poured coal oil on the carcases of dead cattle and burned them in an attempt to stop the spread of the disease.

"It could wipe out the whole country if it's not checked," a veterinarian in Falls County said. "We can check it if we have an effective quarantine. Most everybody is scared, but we don't need stupid things like hauling cattle to sale."

A vaccine is available to control anthrax, but it is scarce, and Falls County extension agent Gilbert Woods said Tuesday the present crisis could drain all supplies of the vaccine.

Billy Ray Gowdy, president of the Oklahoma Board of Agriculture, said "It could wipe some people out if we're not on top of it."

Gowdy said the anthrax was spread by a consignment of cattle from Sulphur Springs, Tex., 150 miles from Marlin where most of the diseased cattle in Texas have been found. He said officials poured through records at the Oklahoma City stockyards to trace the movement of all cattle through the facility in he last couple of days.

"This is what scares us —the other cattle who would be out in the state," Gowdy said. "This is the time of year when cattlemen are most anxious to get their cows to market."

Ranchers in Texas already have been hurt badly this year by low market prices for their product and a severe drought.

Storin Headed For Tam Post

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (UPI) — A local radio station says it has learned that Mike Storin, commissioner of the American Basketball Association, will resign his post to become president and general manager of the league's Memphis Tams.

Station WRGB said Tuesday that it had learned the announcement concerning Storin's move would be made this week.

Bob McNamara, sports director for the station, also said it was learned that Carolina Cougars of the ABA would be transferred to St. Louis under new ownership. And he said it would be announced within the week that Providence College's All-America center Marvin Barnes had signed a "long term contract with the ABA for about $1 million."

This city unsuccessfuly sought a franchise in the ABA earlier this year.

Radio System Near Completion

KINGSTON

The Hospital - Ambulance Communication System, a project of the Ulster County Traffic Safety Board, is expected to become, fully operational within the next two weeks, according to Brendon D. Alexander, board chairman.

Radio base stations are in operation at both the Benedictine and Kingston Hospitals with a four channel capacity to communicate with all ambulance and rescue services in the county. The consoles in each hospital will also include the necessary hook-up to equipment in the hospitals for the evaluation of the patients vital life signs.

The project is being funded by federal grants and in-kind services. The initial grant of $6,600 has been received and another $6,000 for installation of equipment in volunteer ambulances is now available. Another $6,600 will be received July 30 for a total grant of $19,200.

Seventeen ambulance services both volunteer and commercial will be participating.

Regarding the filing of applications for highway safety project grants, Ulster County Health Commissioner Dr. Bartholomew J. Dutto is project director and is in charge of project coordination.

The project when completed establishes a two-way communication between the emergency vehicle and the physician at one of the hospitals. The system provides radio communication between the hospital and the technician in the emergency vehicle. On the spot aid may be given to the patient and the emergency facilities at the hospitals can also be prepared to meet the immediate needs of the person on arrival. The two hospitals are set up to handle more efficiently different types of medical treatment and it would be possible to screen the emergency and direct the emergency vehicle to the best equipped hospital for any one particular illness and injury.

It is the first successfully completed project of the newly formed Traffic Safety Board.

"The system will be invaluable in the event of multiple vehicle or disaster type incidents involving unusually large numbers of injured persons," Alexander said. Means of direct communication is provided from the accident scene to the professional medical advisors at the hospital in the establishment of priority of transport considering the severity of injury.

The Traffic-Safety Board also includes Robert Stinemire, secretary; David Goble, vice chairman; Chief William Trapnell, Ellenville Police; Herbert L. Wells, John F. Taylor, New Paltz Police; Charles F. Ayasse, George D. Kakoullis, John T. Tiano, and John W. McFadden.

Appeals Court Upholds State in Training School Case

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The Court of Appeals, praising the state Division for Youth for upgrading programs, has upheld the right of the state to place a problem child in special training schools.

In a decision handed down Monday, the state's highest tribunal upheld the legal right of the state to place a so-called "person in need of supervision," (PINS) in a training school.

Admitting that it is limited in its ability to measure the effectiveness of the program given PINS children, the court said that a challenge only be offered if the child was not adequately treated at the centers.

"We note the Division for Youth has made a commendable start toward upgrading the Tryon and Hudson Training Schools and implementing the PINS child's right to necessary care and treatment."

The court also ruled that a board which probed a steam pipe explosion that killed seven persons in New York City cannot be forced to submit its papers for use in a law suit.

The case was brought by Don Cirale against 80 Pine Street Corp., which operated the building where a steam pipe exploded May 3, 1972.

The original plaintiff had sought the complete records of a board of inquiry that was ordered to investigate the accident.

The Court of Appeals, with only two dissenting opinions, overturned an Appellate Division ruling upholding a Supreme Court order for the documents.

"While the need of a litigant for the information would present a strong argument for disclosure, the court should balance such need against the government's duty to inquire into and ascertain the fact of a serious accident for the purposes of taking steps to prevent similar occurrences in the future," the court said.

In another ruling, the court upheld lower court decisions that approved the awarding of $250 each to seven blacks who were denied service at a fashion show at a Moose Lodge in Batavia. The court said it was evident "that such conduct perpetrated in a place used as a public accommodation cannot be tolerated."

The decision upholds the compensatory damages awarded by the commissioner of the Human Rights Division. The Loyal Order of Moose had challenged the commissioner on the ground that financial compensation was not proper.

The blacks, who had been invited to attend a fashion show at the lodge, were refused service at the facility's bar.

The court ruled that the commissioner has been given the authority to eliminate discrimination — and that he has "more discretion in effecting an appropriate remedy than he would have under strict common law principles."

"The evidence produced in this case was adequate to meet the statutory standard and support of the commissioner's determination," the court ruled.

The court also upheld an Appellate Division order that would allow the Lutheran Church to alter or demolish the mid-Manhattan mansion that was once the home of J. P. Morgan Jr.

The church, which uses the building for offices, is prohibited from demolishing the building because, in 1965, it was declared a New York City landmark.

The court noted that "it is uncontested that the existing building is totally inadequate for plainiff's legitimate needs and must be replaced if plaintiff is to be able freely and economically to use the premises."

"We find a situation exceeding the permissible limits of the zoning power," the court ruled.

Federal Law Sought to Police Youth Camps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Connecticut father whose son died in a canoeing accident wants federal law to police youth camps, but a Health, Education and Welfare Department official says states should take care of the problem.

Remarks came from both men at a hearing Monday held by the Senate subcommittee on children and youth. The committee has before it two bills to regulate health and safety standards in operation of children's camps.

Mitch Kurman's story goes back nine years. Ever since, he has crusaded for laws to protect children at camp. But, sessions of Congress have passed without action, he said.

Kurman, a Westport, Conn., businessman, told how his son David drowned in 1965 while canoeing with a group sponsored by the Rochester, N.Y., YMCA.

Kurman said a forest ranger had warned the group leader to stay away from one stretch of river, but he did not. David Kurman's canoe was swept down river and smashed. Young Kurman disappeared and another boy was injured. Kurman's body was found later.

Kurman said he has gathered a sheaf of reports from around the nation of similar accidents: a dishwasher who was a "rifle range instructor" at a New York camp shot a youth while trying to help him with a jammed gun. A girl drowned in a camp group while innertubing down an Arizona river without life jackets. A Boy Scout group, warned of rough water on the Green River in Utah, went down it in rafts and all capsized, drowning one Scout and stranding others.

"Every case cited is a lesson if we care to use it and learn," Kurman said. He urged passage of the bill by the subcommittee chairman, Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., that would set up standards for camps.

However, D. Theodore Cooper, deputy assistant HEW secretary for Health, Education and Welfare contended, "The functions in question are state public health responsibilities."

HEW is giving states suggestions for their own laws, he said, and encouraging them to pass them individually.

Besides, he said, one study made for HEW showed that children in camp are less likely to be hurt than children in general.

Of 200 camps surveyed, Cooper said, "Severe injuries, illnesses and deaths occurred with lower frequency among youngsters attending these 200 camps than occurs among this age group in the national population at large."

The HEW recognizes that "even one camping death or serious injury is too many," Cooper said, "but the department does not consider that federal legislation is needed with regard to summer youth camps."

Witnesses from several youth organizations such as the Boy and Girl Scouts, and some state officials also testified.

Ed Andrews of the American Camping Association said his group believes "all camps can and should meet fundamental regulations for health and safety that will be promulgated by the youth camp safety legislation."

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., told the subcommittee, "Most parents simply consider summer camps an extension of school ... Little do they realize that the laws covering that camp or protecting their children are grossly inadequate and often do not even exist." Ribicoff said he has been trying for years without success to get the camp safety bill passed.

"We simply cannot allow the situation to remain as it is," he said.

Kurman said he thinks only Michigan, Colorado, and Connecticut have "some good laws" on the subject.

Otherwise, he said, "How in the world can a parent such as myself...check out a camp for my child?"

Camps should be regulated more closely, he said, because "camps are an unusual business. Their commodity is our most precious possession."

Montgomery Ward Auto Club

Travel Services, Too

CHICAGO, ILL. Montgomery Ward's new Auto Club has announced it soon will begin providing travel agency services in 45 states.

According to Richard E. Cremer, president of the Montgomery Ward Auto Club, "We soon will be able to offer members a wide variety of tours and cruises based on group fares to all parts of the world. These tours will depart at frequent intervals from major cities around the country on a continuing, year-around bais.

"As an example," Cremer said, "our first tour will be to San Francisco, Los Angles and Las Vegas. There will be 12 departure dates between Sept. 21 and March 22, leaving from Chicago, Detroit, New York, Dallas, Miami, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Denver.

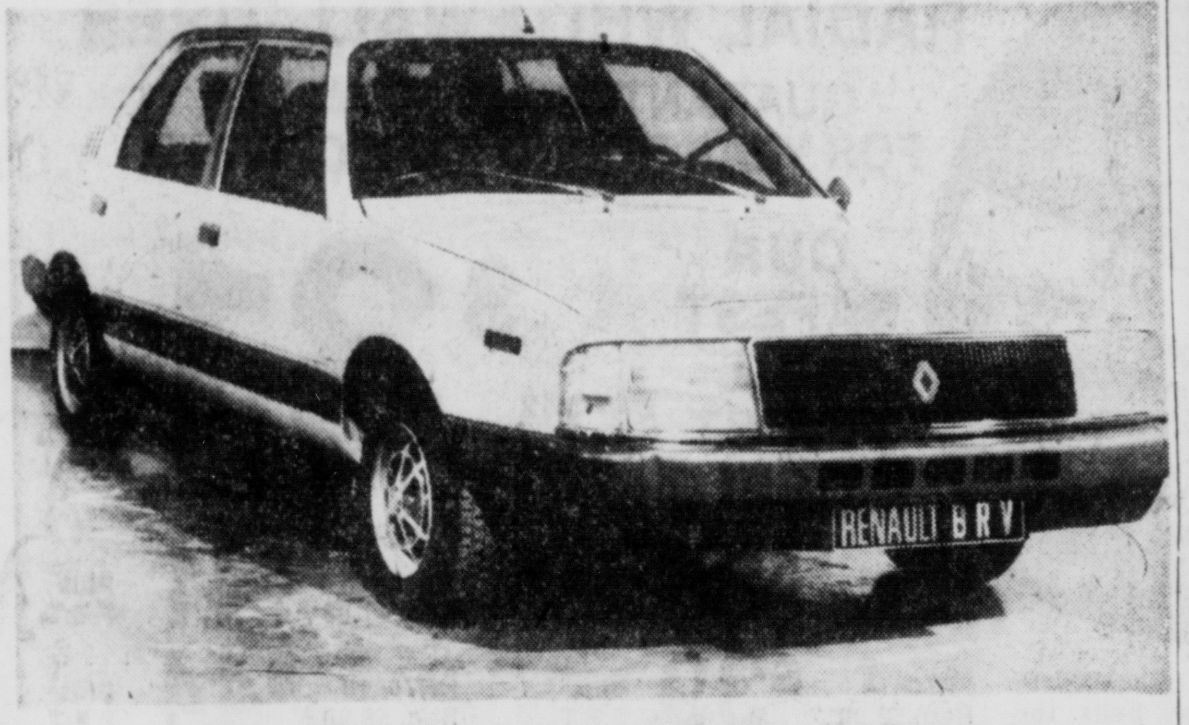
"There will also be a London tour with nine departure dates beginning in the Fall from those same cities plus San Francisco Los Angles and Portland."

The London tours depart Saturday, returning on Sundays. The west coast trips leave Saturdays and return on Fridays.

Cremer said these tours are being designed exclusively for Montgomery Ward Auto Club members by Thomas Cook Inc., the oldest and largest travel agency in the world. "Cook's tour services will be available to MWAC members through any of their over 500 offices in 54 countries," he said.

The Montgomery Ward Auto Club, established last February for Ward's credit account customers in 22 states for a $2.25 monthly fee, recently expanded into an additional 23 states. The club offers a broad assortment of benefits that includes emergency road and towing service; all-risk, no exclusion death or dismemberment protection; auto rental and hotel discounts; bail bond coverage and many other benefits available to members through a toll-free, 24-hour telephone number.

A Montgomery Ward store in Kingston, N.Y. area is located on Boice's Lane and Ulster Avenue Mall.



RENAULT POINTS TO FUTURE — This basic research vehicle designed by Renaut and presented at the recent London Transport Road Research and Safety Conference, offer a good idea of what the car of the future might look like. Built to protect passengers from injury in crashes up to 35 miles per hour, it stands out as one of the few experimental safety vehicles that is both attractive to look at and comfortable to drive. A new hydralic, energy-absorbing seat belt system, developed by Renault and used on the research vehicle, could prevent up to 50 per cent of all high-way fatalities, the company estimates, if incorporated into current models. DeMicco Motors, East Chester Street Bypass, is the local Renault dealer.

EVERY ONE HELPS — James F. Dwyer (R) president of Rondout National Bank, looks on as Matthew Fury, 1½, adds a few pennies to the wheelbarrow at the main office of the bank at Broadway and Henry Street. Matthew's parents Dan and Jo-Ann, join in the festivities. (Freeman photos by Carey)

300 Brought In 415,255

KINGSTON Have you been saving your pennies for a rainy day?

Well, perhaps you were and perhaps you got rid of them with a little sweetner thrown in as a bargain at last Saturday's Rainy Day special at Rondout National Bank.

A total of 415,255 pennies came into the main office of Rondout National, Broadway, and Henry Street, and at the other branches in Saugerties, New Paltz and Woodstock.

Some 300 individuals brought this avalanche of pennies to the banking offices and at the present time totals are being compiled in order to decide on awards.

Besides the awards, incidentally, those who carted their pennies to the bank's offices last Saturday received a 10 per cent dividend as well.

As for the awards, these awards will be announced at a future date:

A $25 U.S. Savings Bond to the youngster who turned in the most pennies.

A Special U.S. Treasury Department citation will be awarded to youngsters who turned in $25 or more in pennies.

And McDonald's $3 gift certificates for the children who turned in the second, third and fourth largest number of pennies.

Dizzy Dean, 64, Victim of Heart Attack

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Dizzy Dean, folklore hero of baseball's golden age, died early today at the age of 64.

Doctors at St. Mary's Hospital said the Hall of Fame hurler passed away at 1:35 a.m. (PDT) after suffering a massive heart attack while dining with his wife Pat, last Sunday. She, his brother Paul, and Paul Dean's two children were at his side.

Dean, whose first name was Jerome, was the last National League pitcher to win 30 games, leading the 1934 St. Louis Cardinals to the pennant with a 30-7 record. Paul Dean added 19 wins in a baseball brother act perhaps rivaled only by the Dimaggios.

Dean died in a local hospital only a few hundred yards from the bright lights of this gambling capital he loved so much.

He had suffered a heart attack last Sunday only a few hours after being released from a South Lake Tahoe hospital where he rested three days following complaints of chest pains.

As a pitcher for the famed Cardinals (Gashouse Gang) of the 1930s, Dean played hard on and off baseball diamonds. He never made very much money in those depression years and what he did make he spent as quickly as he could.

Life never really changed for Dizzy through the years. He never amassed any wealth although radio jobs and other employment always filled his pockets with money.

"Money doesn't mean a thing if you can't enjoy it," was one of his pet phrases of later years. "I've made some and I've lost some but I have no regrets."

Following his baseball career, he became a prominent sportscaster whose grammatical mistakes and folk-sayings won him new fans. He was also the subject of a motion picture.

Dean lived in Wiggins, Miss., where the funeral and burial will be held.

Dizzy Dean, a former migratory cotton picker who claimed he only went through the second grade, was one of baseball's great pitchers. But he might have reached much greater heights if an injury had not destroyed his effectiveness at age 27, when he should have only begun to reach his peak.

He was perhaps baseball's most eccentric character since the days of Rube Waddell, early in the 20th century.

Waddell sometimes called in all the outfielders in exhibitions, then struck out the side. Dizzy preferred to fill the bases, then fan the side. He also was known to break curfew and other rules on occasion.

He was a big right-hander who had a blazing fast ball and bragged about it. He used to tell the hitters when the fast ball was coming, then fire it past them. He struck out 17 batters in one game—then a record—and led the National League in strikeouts four straight years.

He won 30 games and lost only seven in pitching the St. Louis Cardinals to the National League championship and World Series title against Detroit in 1934. No National League pitcher has reached the 30-game victory plateau since. His brother Paul, constantly referred to by Dizzy as "me 'n Paul," won 19. Dizzy won two World Series games; Paul won the other two.

In one of baseball's amazing feats, Dizzy pitched nine times in 19 days during the Cardinals' 1934 pennant drive and continuing into the World Series. He was voted the National League's Most Valuable Player that year.

Dizzy's career was cut short when he was hit on the toe by a line drive from the bat of Earl Averill in the 1937 All-Star Game. The injury changed his pitching motion, which subsequently hurt his arm and forced him to depend on curves instead of the fast ball.

That proved to be Dizzy's downfall as a pitcher.

From a 30-7 record in 1934, 28-12 in 1935 and 24-13 in 1936, Dean slipped to 13-10 in 1937. Sold to the Chicago Cubs for $185,000 and three players in 1938, he helped the Cubs to the 1938 pennant with a 7-1 record and started one game in the World Series against the New York Yankees.

Ol' Diz Had Two Sets of Names

Dizzy Dean said he had two sets of given names, was born on January 16, August 22 and February 22 and first saw the light of day in Lucas, Ark., Holdenville, Okla., and Bond, Miss.

The son of a cotton-picker whose family straggled about the Southwest in the early 1920's, he developed a strong arm by throwing clods at prairie dogs. He was one of the rawest "bushers" ever to reach the big leagues, admitted to being the best pitcher in baseball history, fractured the English language in an unending torrent of words and was a famous radio and TV baseball announcer.

Amiable although incredibly vain, Ol' Diz was the soul of the St. Louis Cardinals' 1934 Gas House Gang and an advisor to anyone who would listen. He swaggered sitting down, once dangled a teammate out of 12th-story hotel window and liked to invade formal parties in the overalls of a house painter.

With it all, Dizzy was one of the greatest pitchers in baseball history before a freak accident in 1937 cut short his career. He was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., in 1953 and later unsuccessfully sought the Governor's Mansion in Jackson, Miss.

A 6-foot, 4-inch, 200-pound right-hander, Dean entered organized baseball with the St. Joseph club of the Western League in 1930 and by the end of the season earned a trial with the parent Cardinal organization. General Manager Branch Rickey recognized his talent—Dizzy had compiled a 25-10 record with St. Joseph and Houston of the Texas League—but thought another season in the minor leagues would do the cocksure youth some good.

Dizzy was back with the Cardinals a year later after winning 26 games, compiling a 1.57 earned run average and striking out 303 batters in 304 innings for Houston in 1931.

It was during the spring of 1932 that Dizzy began his own legend with contradictory stories of his birth and early life. Also, with the announcement that the only pitcher in the world even close to him in ability was his younger brother, Paul. Sportswriters promptly tabbed the brothers "Dizzy and Daffy" although the younger Dean turned out to be a modest enough chap.

Asked once why he lied to sportswriter about his birthday, name and birthsite, he replied:

"Them ain't lies, them's scoops."

Then, after a moment's thought, he continued:

"I don't know when or where I was born but I know my real name is Jay Hanna Dean. I took the names Jerome Herman as a favor for a kid's father. The kid was a friend of mine who died when he was about 10 years old. I told the father I liked the kid so much I was gonna call myself by his names."

As a rookie in 1932, Dizzy had an 18-15 record and led the league with 191 strikeouts and 286 innings pitched. He came back with a 20-18 sophomore season in 1933 and led the league with 199 strikeouts and 48 appearances.

In the spring of 1934, Dizzy announced that "Me and Paul" would win 45 games between them that season and that the Cardinals would win the National League pennant. The brothers made good on the boast, winning 49 games between them to pitch the Cardinals to the pennant and then beating the Detroit Tigers twice each in the world series.

Dizzy reached his peak in that 1934 season—on and off the field.

Culuccio Kayoed

Action in Milwaukee

Tens of players spilled onto the field, paired off in half a dozen skirmishes and traded lots of punches in Milwaukee, after the Brewers' Bob Coluccio, target of a brushback pitch, was hit in the head.

The excitement in Milwaukee began when Coluccio came up to the plate in the seventh inning after striking singles in his three previous at bats. Ray Corbin was on the mound for Minnesota. One of Corbin's pitches struck Coluccio, dropping him to the dirt and knocking his helmet 10 feet away.

"I was just trying to brush him back," Corbin said after the Brewers edged the Twins 5-4. "Certainly, I'm sorry about what happened.

Elsewhere in the American League, the California Angels routed the Cleveland Indians 11-2; the Oakland A's nipped the Baltimore Orioles 4-3; the New York Yankees blanked the Texas Rangers 2-0; the Kansas City Royals shaded the Boston Red Sox 5-4 and the Chicago White Sox downed the Detroit Tigers 6-0.

Coluccio was knocked unconscious for several moments, but was able to leave the field under his own power. He was taken to the hospital for precautionary X rays.

A's 4, Orioles 3

Rollie Fingers is getting back to basics—his fastball.

Fingers, the bullpen ace of the defending world champions, preserved Oakland's victory over Baltimore, notching his seventh save after replacing Ken Holtzman in the eighth inning, displaying fast and effective relief work.

Royals 5, Red Sox 4

After some early trouble, Steve Busby made a lot of good pitches. Busby's manager then made a good pitch of his own.

"If Buzz is left off the All-Star team, the American League has made a mistake," said Kansas City Manager Jack McKeon.

Yankees 2, Rangers 0

Medich tossed a five-hitter and Sandy Alomar and Bobby Murcer drove in third-inning runs off 19-year-old David Clyde, leading New York past Texas.

In the National League, the San Francisco Giants buried the New York Mets 9-4 under an avalanche of 13 hits, including four by Gary Matthews, giving him a 21-for-51 July. Rookie second baseman Chris Arnold smashed a two-run triple in the six-run fifth inning rally and is 11-for-24 in seven games as a replacement for the ailing Tito Fuentes.

Montreal Espos edged the skidding Los Angeles Dodgers 8-7, cutting their lead over the Cincinnati Reds to 6½ games.

Expos 8, Dodgers 7

Willie Davis' fifth hit tied the game in the ninth inning and Ken Singleton produced the game-winner with a sacrifice fly, giving Montreal a wild victory over Los Angeles.

Davis singled home pinch runner Boots Day and sent Larry Lintz to third base. Singleton then drove a sacrifice fly off reliever Charlie Hough for the game-winner.

Messersmith, Marshall Head NL All-Star Staff

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Los Angeles Dodger right-handers Andy Messersmith, 10-2, and reliever Mike Marshall, 11-4, were among eight National League pitchers named today by Manager Yogi Berra for next Tuesday's All-Star baseball game at Pittsburgh.

Only Messersmith and Philadelphia left-hander Steve Carlton, 11-7, have been on previous All-Star squads. Messersmith was on the 1971 American League team but did not pitch. Carlson pitched in the 1968, 1969 and 1972 games and got credit for a 9-3 victory in 1969.

Other selections by Berra, the New York Met manager, were left-handers Ken Brett of Pittsburgh, 11-6, and Jon Matlack of New York, 8-6, and right-handers Buzz Capra of Atlanta, 9-4, Lynn McGlothen of St. Louis, 12-5, and Steve Rogers of Montreal, 10-10.

Marshall, at 31 the oldest of the NL All-Star pitching choices, has appeared in 61 games and set a major league record by pitching in 13 straight from June 18 to July 3. The former Montreal reliever has 13 saves and an earned-run average of 2.39 for 113 innings.

Messersmith, 28, and Carlton, 29, are among the league leaders in strikeouts. Messersmith's ERA is 1.96 and Carlton's 3.11.

Capra, 26, who moved into the Braves' starting rotation in May and won the NL Player of the Month award for June, has the league's best ERA—1.86. Brett, also 26, has a 2.76 ERA and is one of the best hitting pitchers in baseball.

McGlothen, Matlack and Rogers are all 24 and give the NL pitching staff a youthful average age of 26½. Matlack, a hard thrower who came into his own last year in the playoff with Cincinnati and the World Series against Oakland, has the best ERA of the three, 2.59.

Revolt in Bengals' Camp

Major NFL Showdown Set July 27

By The Associated Press

The battle lines have been drawn. The date is July 27, the site Canton, Ohio.

That is when the annual Hall of Fame Game will be played between the St. Louis Cardinals and Buffalo Bills, and that is when a major confrontation will take place between the striking National Football League Players Association and the club owners.

Meanwhile, there were indications Tuesday from both sides that negotiations might be resumed later this week, and the first major rift in the striking NFLPA's facade appeared at the camp of the Cincinnati Bengals.

The NFL Management Council, bargaining agent for the 26 club owners, reaffirmed Tuesday that all exhibition games will be played—even if that means lineups composed of rookies, free agents and the handful of veterans who have crossed picket lines.

And the first of those exhibition games is the Hall of Fame contest at Canton.

The NFLPA has said that it would take steps to see that the exhibition games are not played until a settlement in the dispute is reached. That presumably means a picket line of veterans.

The Canton game is the only one still scheduled for the opening week of exhibition play, since the July 26 College All-Star Game has already been scratched.

St. Louis Coach Don Coryell said he would double up on drills to get his players ready for the exhibition game. But Buffalo star O.J. Simpson, who spent one day walking the NFLPA picket line, said he was going back to his home in California and will remain there until the strike is settled.

Meanwhile, spokesmen for federal mediator James Scearce and the two sides indicated that they might soon return to the bargaining table, perhaps before the weekend.

"Both sides now are ready to sit down and discuss the issues," Bill Curry, president of the NFLPA, said. "I think we would be foolish if we couldn't sit down and work out an agreement."

The NFLMC said Tuesday that at least 77 veterans were in camp in defiance of the picket lines. By comparison, only 21 veterans were in camp on the final day of the 1970 NFLPA strike, according to the management group. Many of the veterans in camp, however, are marginal players whose status is far from certain.

One place where the strike appeared to be breaking down was at the Cincinnati Bengals camp in Wilmington, Ohio, where the 30 players on hand, including 13 veterans, voted unanimously Tuesday against meeting with NFLPA officials and it appeared that other Bengals veterans were ready to join the experienced players already in camp.

Veteran linebacker Jim LcClair and wide receiver Tim George reported to the Bengals camp Tuesday.

Player representative Pat Matson, in Cincinnati, said he was "very disheartened and very discouraged" with his fellow teammates, and he added, "A number of other players—I won't say who—said they were going to report."

At least four veterans of the Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins were expected to cross the picket line and report to training camp as scheduled today. Although Coach Don Shula said he had no idea how many players would show up, reserve quarterback Earl Morrall, tight end Jim Mandich, center Jim Langer and linebacker Bob Matheson all previously indicated they would come to camp on time.

In another development Tuesday, Philadelphia veterans attempted to hold practices at Veterans Stadium, their home playing field, but the NFLMC told the Eagles to close the park to the players until the strike is settled.

That edict angered Philadelphia owner Leonard Tose, who said, "It seems to me that in effect our players defied the union, and we should welcome this defiance."

Tom Dempsey, Eagles player respresentative, said the veterans would try to find another place to practice.

The Los Angeles Rams open their camp to rookies today, with veterans scheduled to report Sunday. One star who won't be there is All-Pro quarterback John Hadl.

A group of 71 rookies and free agents are expected at the Rams camp today, including Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti.

Pittsburgh Steeler punter Bobby Walden, an 11-year veteran, arrived in camp Tuesday. Steeler veterans were supposed to be in camp by noon today, but there was no indication whether any would join Walden.

ABA Corrals Barnes

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Basketball Association, apparently lulled into a false sense of security when a merger with the National Basketball Association appeared imminent, now has regrouped strongly since the absorption proposal fell through.

The ABA, after a slow start in signing collegiate draft choices because of the latest merger negotiations which dissipated last month, was to announce its biggest signing today—All-American Marvin Barnes of Providence.

The disclosure of Barnes' signing was to coincide with announcements after a meeting of the board of trustees that the Carolina franchise was being purchased from owner Tedd Munchak by a wealthy New York group which would relocate the team in St. Louis, that ABA Commissioner Mike Storen was leaving his post to become part owner and president of the Memphis team and that a new commissioner had been picked to succeed him.

Barnes, a muscular 6-foot-8, 213-pounder, reportedly had agreed to a six-year, $2.5 million contract with the new St. Louis team, which would play its games in the 18,000-seat St. Louis Arena.

Lyle Wins

DENVER (AP) — Ron Lyle moved solidly into top heavyweight contention with a unanimous 12-round decision over Jimmy Ellis Tuesday night as Ellis' hopes for a comeback fizzled.

There were no knockdowns but Ellis was staggered several times by his much stronger opponent. Ellis weighed 193¼ pounds to Lyle's 215½.

Lyle's record is now 28-1-1. Ellis is 39-10-1. The judges scored the fight for Lyle 59-55, 58-52 and 59-52.

In a scheduled 10-round heavyweight fight, former Olympic boxer Duane Bobick scored a first-round technical knockout over Donny Nelson of Phoenix.

Referee Jack Capeli stopped the bout at 2:52 after Bobick smashed Nelson to the canvas three times.

Bobick, who fights out of Denver, improved his pro record to 23-0. Nelson is 12-2.

Lyle, also of Denver, repeatedly snapped back Ellis' head with powerful jabs throughout the fight. In the sixth round, he dazed Ellis with a combination to the jaw and a right hook to the head.

"I got staggered in the sixth," Ellis said.

"He knows what he's doing in the ring. I see why he's never been knocked down or out," Ellis added.

Junior Game For Loughran

KINGSTON

Loughran Park, held scoreless for five innings by Block's Greg Longendyke, rallied for a run in the sixth and three in the seventh to post a 4-1 City Park Junior Softball League victory.

RBI's by Jim Kerr, Jay Binney, and John Albany, and the solid defense of short-centerfielder Chip Plough were the factors contributing to Loughran's success. Mark Howell tripled for Block.

In another game, Loughran, with two runs batted in apiece by Dave Jordan, Tim Gaffney, Randy Bitonte, and Binney whipped Hutton, 10-4. Pat Gallo's two hits produced two runs for the losers.

LaLima's Hold Sunday Lead

KINGSTON

LaLima's Barber Shop (6-1) and Greco Motors (6-2) remained a half game apart in the Kingston Sunday Slow Pitch League, as the Barbers shaved Trailways 16-5 and Greco's topped Bonelli's 7-4.

In other games, Woodstock Meats ground Ruby Rod and Gun Club 7-4 and Duplex thumped Hucktrol 15-6.

Home run hitters in the league included Rich Van Keuren (4th), Bill Chaffin Sr. (3rd), Ed Brown, Bill Chaffin Jr., Gene Breitenstein, Bill Gddis, Mel Williams (3rd), Dick Burris.

Durkin Departs NPS Soccer Under Cloud

By IRA FUSFELD

NEW PALTZ

Sitting back in his Elting Gym office, Bob Durkin is surrounded by the souvenirs of better times.

Team pictures cover part of one wall, plaques awarded to his New Paltz State soccer players for All-Conference or American recognition fill in the holes the pictures missed. A bulletin board dominates the other side with ticket stubs, programs, and other momentos. And right above Durkin's chair there's the impressive plaque New Paltz earned the year it finished fourth in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) tournament in North Carolina.

If Bob Durkin is to accumulate more soccer tokens they'll have to be as a result of efforts elsewhere and they'll have to hang in some other office. After 16 years of coaching college soccer, five at Geneseo State and eleven at New Paltz (six coaching Hawk varsities), Durkin won't be on the sidelines this September. He has been relieved of his job by Department of Physical Education Chairman Dr. Eugene T. DeLuca so that he may devote his energies to running the fall tennis program.

Durkin wants it made clear he isn't happy about the change.

"I don't want to get into a war of words in the paper," the blonde-haired graduate of East Stroudsburg State said Tuesday. "But I think my removal was unjust and I'd like people to know that."

DeLuca, it was reported in Friday's Freeman, "quietly relieved" Durkin of the soccer job because the State University of New York Athletic Conference had decided to go with varsity tennis in the fall instead of in the spring as it had in the past. Durkin had been able to coach both soccer and tennis, but with the new schedule he would have to give up one. DeLuca chose soccer.

Durkin agrees that the tennis consideration was one of the reasons he lost the soccer job. But he feels it wasn't the important one.

"Last season was a disaster," he recalled, "that was obvious. The icing on the cake was the game at Oneonta which we lost 16-0 and in that game one of our players, Walter Blair, slugged an official.

We were losing 13-0 in the game when Eddie Bustos (of New Paltz) was tripped in the penalty area. Well, the official didn't call it and Eddie was livid, jumping up and down and yelling at the guy. Walter then came over and pushed-slugged the guy. He hit him hard too.

"I ran out and grabbed Walter and pulled him away, I had to really restrain him from going out there again. When he finally calmed down I let him go, but he ran out there again with a stretcher as if he was going to really clobber the guy. Well, I know Walter and he was just putting on an act and we finally got him away."

After the incident the officials' association filed a formal protest to DeLuca ("as they should have," Durkin is quick to point out). DeLuca, Durkin says, gave him a vote of confidence and to his knowledge the matter was dropped.

In the meantime, the SUNYAC, reacting to the officials' complaints, placed New Paltz on a year's probation in soccer (DeLuca, when told this by the Freeman Tuesday said it was the first he'd heard about it).

At the end of December, DeLuca, as department chairman, conducted the routine business of evaluating the staff and staff assignments. It was at that time he told Durkin that some change would have to be made as a result of the tennis /soccer conflict.

Durkin says he told DeLuca that he'd like to, if given the choice, coach soccer at least one more year. DeLuca, claims Durkin, told him no final decision would be made until he, Durkin, and Athletic Director Joe Owens got together to discuss it.

In March, Durkin received official notification from DeLuca that he'd been relieved of the soccer job. Durkin says DeLuca made the decision by himself and that Owens was opposed to the change.

The incident at Oneonta, coming as it did on top of the worst win-loss season in the history of the sport at New Paltz, was the main reason for his dismissal, Durkin insists. The tennis conflict, he thinks, was a good enough excuse for DeLuca to have made the change.

"I feel I am a qualified soccer person," Durkin says. "Last year we lost to Oneonta, 1-0, on a fluke goal. This was the same Oneonta team that lost 1-0 to St. Louis in the national finals. This year we lost to them 16-0. I know I'm the same coach as I was last year."

DeLuca, when informed of Durkin's comments, stood by his announced reasoning for relieving him of the soccer job.

"I am doing what I think is good for the athletic program here," he noted. "We have a good chance in the SUNY with tennis this year. Durkin is a good tennis coach, he has good rapport with the team, and I want to see him coach them. To coach tennis he has to give up soccer."

DeLuca says the decision was his to make, but he made it after consulting with his athletic director, Owens, and after having been made aware of Durkin's position.

"But," he emphasizes, "it was my decision, not a three-man decision."

Durkin, who played varsity tennis at East Stroudsburg and coached it at Geneso before coming to New Paltz, is by now resigned to his new fall assignment.

Will he ever coach soccer again? Probably not at New Paltz, at least as long as DeLuca is in charge. He isn't ruling out looking elsewhere, however, although he won't leave the area for personal reasons at least for a couple of more years.

"After 16 years I didn't have the zest coaching soccer as I had when I first started," Durkin admits, "but I still gave it 100 per cent. And I will continue to give it 100 per cent. I would have liked to have gone out a winner. I think I was removed unjustly. I don't think it was fair."

State U. Drops Track

NEW PALTZ

Varsity track and field has been dropped as a team sport at New Paltz State, Dr. Eugene T. DeLuca, Department of Physical Education and Athletics Chairman revealed Tuesday.

"We are dropping it for much the same reason as we dropped wrestling (as was reported in Friday's Freeman). The athletes are just not showing up. There just hasn't been enough interest in it."

DeLuca says he hopes both track and wrestling will some day reappear.

"I don't like to think of them as totally finished. I like to think that in a few years we'll reactivate them."

Meanwhile, DeLuca and his Athletic Director Joe Owens are hoping that the student-allocated budget for varsity sports will be about the same as was allocated for the 1973-74 fiscal year If that's the case, the elimination of the two sports will enable the other sports to breathe easier.

He is aware, however, that student-run allocating committees may choose to cut the budget when they see it will finance less sports than in the past, or they may take some money from men's sports to upgrade the women's programs.

DeLuca says the Title IX policy recently approved by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, is "hazy" and "full of holes." The law, which calls for equal treatment of women and men athletes, is still being studied by educators across the country for proper evaluation.

DeLuca does say that "there's no way we can provide equal facilities here." unless a proposed field house plan is revitalized.

The field house was to have been built several years ago as part of the campus' major expansion program. But at the last minute lack of funds froze the project.

National Sports Briefs

OBERG CAN PLAY

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Multnomah County Circuit Judge Charles Crookham denied a request Tuesday for a preliminary injunction to prevent safety Tom Oberg from playing with the Portland Storm of the World Football League.

Officials of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League had requested the order to keep Oberg, who played three seasons for Winnipeg, from joining the Storm. Oberg, 27, contended he had been freed from his contract.

MARTIN SUSPENDED

NEW YORK (UPI) — Texas Ranger manager Billy Martin was suspended for three games and fined Tuesday for remarks he made at home plate Sunday that triggered a beanball battle between his club and the Milwaukee Brewers.

American League President Lee MacPhail imposed the suspension and fine, which will begin today. According to Martin, the suspension came as a result of his warning Brewer manager Del Crandall that pitcher Jackie Brown would be throwing at Milwaukee shortstop Robin Yount.

Martin will resume command of the Rangers on Saturday in Texas. During his absence, third base coach Frank Lucchesi will handle the team. The amount of the fine was not announced.

NOWAK SIGNS

DETROIT (UPI) — Left wing Hank Nowak, obtained by the Detroit Red Wings from Pittsburgh earlier this year, signed a three-year contract Tuesday with the National Hockey League club.

Two Teams Tie With 60 in Sawyerkill Pro-Am

SAUGERTIES

Teams headed by home professional Bud Cordore and Walter Thiel of Catskill shared honors with 12-under-par net 60s in the Sawyerkill Country Club Pro-Am staged by Cordore. Fourteen teams competed in the tournament which was put together on short notice.

The Thiel team, which included amateurs Bill Macarelli, Roscoe Lacy and Charles Lacey, fashioned best ball 29-31. The Cordore tandem, with Andy Jasienowski, Hank Yochmann and Dan Bigelow, opened with a sizzling 28 but fell to 32 on the back nine. The Catskill foursome also led team low gross with 33-35-68.

A team headed by Dennis Hogan, Shawangunk Country Club pro, posted 31-30-61. Two other teams tied with 62.

Jack Breno, veteran Nevele Country Club pro, lead the pro division with a one-over-par 73, one stroke better than Cordore's 74.

Cordore said he was pleased with the response to his tournament. "I thought we got a good turnout on such short notice," said the Sawyerkill pro. "I think it's the beginning of a revival of pro-ams in this part of the country."

WFL Tries Tonight to Prove It Wasn't a Fluke

The World Football League, which raised more than a few eyebrows with an impressive first round of games last week, will be out to prove that was no fluke when play resumes tonight with five games spread from coast to coast.

Last week's six WFL openers drew nearly a quarter of a million people, averaging over 40,000 per game. The fledgling loop doesn't expect the numbers to be quite as high this time around, partly because a couple of smaller stadiums are being used tonight.

But near-capacity crowds are anticipated at New York, Detroit and Anaheim, which will be getting their first live look at the WFL.

Tonight's schedule lists the Philadelphia Bell at the Houston Texans, the Birmingham Americans at the New York Stars, the Florida Blazers at the Detroit Wheels, the Jacksonville Sharks at the Chicago Fire and the Hawaiians at the Southern California Sun.

In Thursday night's nationally televised game, the Portland Storm will meet the Southmen at Memphis.

There will be acrobats, a rock music group and nickel beer at the Astrodome, where the Houston Texans will be making their home debut. The Texans declined to predict an attendance figure, but the best guess is it will be around 20,000, less than half the Astrodome's capacity.

Philadelphia, an impressive 33-8 winner over Portland last week, boasts a solid attack built around the passing of Jim "King" Corcoran, who completed 21 of 38 for 227 yards last week. Houston, meanwhile, was a disappointing 17-0 loser to Chicago in its opener.

The New York Stars say they expect close to a capacity crowd at 32,000-seat Downing Stadium on Randalls Island, which they have spent $600,000 in refurbishing.

Birmingham beat Southern California 11-7 in its opener and has a number of familiar names, including quarterback George Mira and running backs Charley Harraway and Paul Robinson. New York's defense, led by veterans John Elliott and Gerry Philbin, looked imposing in the Stars' opener, a 14-7 loss to Jacksonville.

A near-sellout crowd of about 20,000 is anticipated for Detroit's home opener at Eastern Michigan University.

Detroit was beaten 34-15 by Memphis last week.

Virgil Carter, who hit on 21 of 34 passes for 184 yards and two touchdowns last week, leads the Chicago Fire against Jacksonville, quarterbacked by Kay Stephenson.

A crowd of about 30,000 is expected at Soldier Field.

Southern California and the Hawaiians are both looking for their first victory before an expected near-capacity crowd of 40,000 at Anaheim Stadium.

Southern California's offense features the passing combination of Tony Adams and Dave Williams and the running of former UCLA stars Kermit Johnson and James McAlister.

Coach Mike Giddings' Hawaiians are quarterbacked by former Mississippi star Norris Weese. Derek Williams gained 94 yards last week and is their top running threat.

NEW YORK (AP) — The World Football League, with a number of favorable out-of-town reviews in its scrapbook, presents its show before a New York audience tonight.

The Stars will host the Birmingham Americans in a hastily renovated Downing Stadium that has the light towers from the old Ebbets Field, planks for seats, and the memories from the time Jesse Owens qualified for the Olympics there in 1936.

There has been a last-minute rush for the stadium's 21,000 tickets that has left the New York management starry-eyed.

The Stars, 14-7 losers to the Jacksonville Sharks last week, hope to convince the hometown critics.

To do so, they'll depend on defense to contain running back Paul Robinson. He picked up 79 yards in 21 rushes in Birmingham's ground-oriented 11-7 victory over the Southern California Sun.

New York permitted just 172 total yards while gaining 338 of its own. The Americans managed 220 total yards but gave up 310 to Southern California.

Stars quarterback Tom Sherman completed 15 for 34 passes for 202 yards against Jacksonville to rank third among WFL signal callers after one week of competition. One pass went to former New York Jets star George Sauer for the first touchdown in the club's history.

Sauer finished the game with seven receptions for 77 yards.

Tiano Excels In Jr. Babe Ruth

KINGSTON

Marco Tiano had quite a day for himself in the Junior Babe Ruth League Monday. In addition to shutting out the American Legion 15-0 on one hit, the Knights of Columbus ace collected three hits, including a two-run homer and struck out 10.

Brian Armstrong also starred for the Kaycees, slamming a single, double and triple and knocking in seven runs. Ron Diers added two singles. The Knights had two big innings, with eight runs in the first and seven in the fifth. Steve Costello, the Legion starter, got the only hit off Tiano.

In another game, Hurley Lions scored twice in the bottom of the sixth to edge Kingston Patrolman's Association 5-3 on Kevin McLane's 5-hitter and 11 strikeouts.

With the score tied 3-3, Ken Boughton walked, Ed Draiss singled. Both runners advanced on an infield out and Billy Reynolds singled them home.

Hurley Swamps Rondout Team

HURLEY

In the first Kingston Area Swim League action for both teams, host Hurley crushed visiting Rondout, 251-91 over the weekend.

Rami Payman, Hurley's 8-and under ace, and Tracy Lasher, a 10-and-under Rondout swimmer, each stroked to four individual victories in their respective classes, but Hurley's overall depth was overwhelming.

The Hurley boys swept the freestyle, backstroke and breaststroke series as the winners rang up a total of 29 first to only 10 for Rondout. Gary Bohan, Russ Voightleander and Jeannine Callahan were triple winners for Hurley.

Five new pool records were set, three by Miss Lasher in freestyle, backstroke and butterfly. Hurley's Bob Darling notched a new freestyle standard for 10-and-under boys, and teammate Bob Begley did the same in 14-and-under boys breaststroke.

Hurley also swam to a dozen new team records. Aiding the assault were double winners Darling, Begley, Scott Sauer, Risa Dean, and Ellen McCardle.

For Rondout, Deb Nichol picked up three victories.

Sugar Senor: 1st 0-Hitter

KINGSTON

Sugar Senor pitched the first no-hitter of the season in the Women's City Softball League, but she only had to last four innings to do it as her Kingston Hospital teammates destroyed Edgar's, 38-2.

In one other game played, Pier Seven II edged Met Life, 13-11.

Senor got all the outs she needed on strikes, fanning 12 batters in the four frames. Edgar's pushed a pair of unearned runs across in the third, but they did little damage.

The Hospital bats were just as effective. Ruth Dhondy showed the way with a grand slam, a double, two singles and seven RBI's. Debbie Hart also homered and added two doubles to drive in three runs. Maggie Bennett and Kathy Foster slammed triples, and Senor hit a pair of doubles.

Pier Seven II almost blew a nine-run lead, but Toni Secreto managed to put out the fire in the last inning to save the victory. Joan Shook and Lynn Thomas knocked in two runs apiece for the winners while Reanie Hoffstatter and Lucy Crooston did the same for Met Life.

Kathy Slover had the game's only big hit, a triple. Teammate Karen Bock was tagged with the loss despite giving up only nine hits.

Tom Turner in Winning Craft

Turner Captures Providence Race

KINGSTON

With fellow Kingstonian John Sherlock having mechanical troubles, Tom Turner captured first place in the S. J. Class at the Dane Emerson Memorial outboard regatta at Providence, R. I.

Driving his Mercury-powered tunnel hull, Turner finished the first behind Sherlock, who was also running in the S. J. Class. In the second heat, Turner passed the struggling Sherlock and went on to win the heat and be declared official winner of the race.

In the F. J. Class, Butch Cooper of Kingston and Gary Reynolds of Port Ewen had a time holding their boats on the water with the high choppy conditions but managed to finish the first heat, with Reynolds taking second and Cooper placing fourth. In the second heat, Reynolds had a spinout which took him out of the race and Cooper drove a very skillful race to take down fourth place.

Reynolds and Cooper finished one-two in the marathon race.

This weekend (July 20-21) all the local drivers will be at Hidden Harbor in Port Ewen, along with drivers from New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Canada and, of course, from around New York State.

The Port Ewen races are sanctioned by the American Power Boat Association and the Canadian Boating Association and known as Outboard Performance Craft races sponsored by the Hidden Harbor Yacht Club of Port Ewen.

There will be four half-hour races each day for a total of four starts and four finishes per day. V-bottom boats will run two races and the tunnel boats will run two races each day, to test both boat and driver to the fullest.

Racing starts each day at 1 p.m. and consists of seven different classes of boats racing a three-mile oval course and often attaining speeds of more than 100 miles per hour.

The start of the course is on the Hudson River just off the shoreline of the Hidden Harbor club. The races will be worth more than $1,200 in prize money and trophies for the 'Schaefer Regatta' provided by the F&M Schaefer Brewing Company.

Spectators may view the races from the grounds of the Hidden Harbor Yacht Club, located at the foot of East Main Street, just off Route 9-W.

Ellenville Will Get 'Impartial Counsel'

ELLENVILLE

The Ellenville Village Board will appoint an 'impartial private counsel" to investigate legal entanglements that have snared attempts to name an attorney for the village.

In April, the Democratic controlled village board elected Alex Nirenberg as village attorney. Republican Mayor Robert Dowling, however, contended that he, alone, is responsible for naming an attorney, so he appointed Albert Lonstein.

The impartial counsel, who has yet to be named, will investigate the matter, and either recommend a solution to the village board, or seek a ruling from the Attorney General's Office. That decision was made at Monday's Village board meeting.

In the meantime, by a 3-2 vote of the village board, Nirenberg will continue to serve as village attorney.

In other action, the village board adopted a new policy that prohibits private swimming pools from being filled by village employes using village equipment. The board decided that such past practices, if not legally wrong, were certainly morally wrong. From now on, private pool owners must do the job themselves, or hire an independent firm.

Bids would have been opened Monday for two new police cars for the village, but none were submitted. Apparently, it is too late to order specially-equipped 1974 cars, and new car dealers in the area don't have the ability to equip police cars themselves. So the board decided to readvertise, at a later date, for two new 1975 autos. The village intends to buy two new police cars each year.

In a related matter, the Ellenville First Aid and Rescue Squad was granted approval to tie in its communications system with the Ellenville Police Department. The squad currently uses a Liberty-based answering service that has resulted in some delays on occasion.

The village board also agreed to ask the Army Corps of Engineers to extend its Flood Control Project to afford protection for six homes on River Street. The Corps has stated that it didn't extend a dike to that area because the cost would have outweighed the potential benefits.

Mid-Hudson Group Grant Clears Way for ARC Hostel

KINGSTON

A $150,000 hostel for retarded adults and children will open in Ulster County in 1975 with the use of a grant announced by the Mid-Hudson Hostel Regional Plan group.

The 12 to 14-bed facility is to be located in close proximity to recreation, day programs for the retarded and shopping areas, according to Joseph E. Ryan, ARC executive director. Although he said that ARC has no particular site in mind and he hasn't even seen all the sites realtors have indicated might be available or suitable, Ryan indicated that the City of Kingston, Town of Ulster or some town nearby might be most suitable.

Federal funds will provide about $50,000 of the money needed for the facility with the balance to be granted by the state and through local funds. ARC's contribution is about 3 per cent, he said.

Ryan envisions the hostel as an alternative to institutionalizing of the retarded and sees no reason why adults and children cannot be housed together, just as they are in family life. He points out that the cost of the hostel is less than institutions and far more humanizing.

U.S Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) and state Mental Hygiene Department grants totaling $3.5 million will be used to build 10 such centers throughout the state this year and next.

Ryan said the Ulster facility will be staffed with a full-time director and live-in parents, a recreation director and a social worker.

ARC will also acquire another outreach center under a separate state mental hygiene grant for a 14-room residence at 67 Wurts Street in Kingston. Residents will include outpatients from Wassaic State School in Dutchess County. ARC already operates a similar facility in Saugerties with 22 beds.

ARC is also the announced recipient of another grant for $24,000 from the Developmental Disabilities Advisory Board at Albany for the purchase of two school buses and the services of a driver for one year.

At present ARC rents buses to transport its handicapped children. Funds for the buses will be available Sept. 1, Ryan said, and the use of them will mean 80 per cent less in costs to the association for transportation.

They will be used for field trips, school programs and for recreation evenings and weekends and for the ARC summer camp.

Ryan explained that with the use of the buses he hopes that there will be increased enrollment in ARC programs because many of the children do not now have adequate transportation.

The field trips will improve their school curriculum he suggested, the recreation program may be enlarged and the handicapped will be afforded more independence.

City Faces Law Suit

KINGSTON

A quarter-million dollar law suit has been brought against the City of Kingston for "false arrest, imprisonment and malicious prosecution," by former Democratic candidate for the Ulster County Legislature Constance Weiss of Woodstock.

In a note of issue filed with the office of the county clerk, Mrs. Weiss' attorney, Charles H. Gaffney indicates that the plaintiff is ready to go to trial in the September term of Supreme Court.

Mrs. Weiss was arrested by City Police in February of 1972 when she allegedly parked her car on an island in the middle of Pine Grove Avenue in Kingston while she went to New York City. The City of Kingston reportedly concerned because she had abandoned the car where it was blocking a sidewalk, ordered Robert Smith, another defendant in the case who operates a service station at the corner of Broadway and Hoffman Street, to pick up the car.

It is alleged that after Smith towed the car to his station, Mrs. Weiss returned the same day, found her car missing from the Pine Grove island and with the help of her daughter later located it at the station. Using her car key, she allegedly drove the automobile away.

Later, when Mrs. Weiss allegedly failed to pay her bill for the towing charge, she was arrested by City Police for theft of services. She posted bail.

She reportedly appeared in City Court paid her bill and the charges against her were dismissed.

She made her claim against the city on May 10, 1972.

Counsel for the city is the law firm of Cook, Tucker and Dwyer George Beck is representing Smith.

Hassidic Sect In Monroe Area

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. (UPI) — The first phase of a housing development intended for at least 2,000 Hassidic Jews is nearing completion near Monroe, with apartments for 100 families scheduled for completion within weeks.

The Times Herald-Record of Middletown, N.Y., said in a copyrighted story that the Forest Road housing development was being built by the Satmar Hassidic sect, an ultra-orthodox religious group whose followers live mostly in the Williamsburg and Borough Park sections of Brooklyn.

In the first phase of the Monroe development, 80 garden apartments and 25 unusually large, single-family homes were nearing completion. All feature kosher kitchens with dual sinks and stoves to keep dairy and meat products apart, the paper said.

SCHOVEL VIEWS 'DUMP SITE'

'No Dumping...People Are Eating'

SAUGERTIES

"It appears the state is going into the garbage business," Town of Saugerties supervisor A. Michael Schovel said this week as he viewed a rest stop and picnic area on Route 9W near Glenerie Falls which he said has "become a dump."

Pointing to the pile of debris and garbage at the foot of a sign reading "unlawful to litter, $50 fine," Schovel said the condition is caused by "people too lazy to take their garbage to the Saugerties landfill and too cheap to pay a refuse collector to pick up their garbage. They are pigs," he exclaimed.

Schovel said he has asked the town attorney what the town can do to correct the situation and was told "nothing" because the land involved belongs to the state.

He said that while he was visiting the area this week, a state truck and two men came to pick up the garbage. So, he said, "it now appears that the state is in the garbage business."

Calling the situation unhealthy and unsightly, he suggests that the state either close off the area or patrol it at whatever cost. He said he intends to see that the state does something one way or the other.

"Saugerties landfill is open six days a week. In comparison to the spot on Route 9W, the landfill is in appearance more of a picnic area than this state rest stop," he concluded.

Listen . . . Veteran

KINGSTON

There's No Time Limit for a veteran to apply for VA hospital care if he is otherwise eligible — but it's no excuse to put off an apparent need for medical attention.

A Higher Education is within reach of sons and daughters of veterans who were severely disabled while in service, and children of veterans who died of service-incurred disabilities. While studying they can receive assistance payments of $220 monthly for up to 36 months, with proportionately lesser amounts for three-quarter, half, and less than half-time attendance. For full benefits, applicants should begin studies by their 22nd birthday. Except under special circumstances, assistance may not be provided beyond their 26th birthday. Eligible students also may receive concurrent payments from the State Education Department, provided they and their parents meet New York State's residency and other requirements, and their course of study is approved by the State Education Department. For detailed information and counseling contact Don Moore at the local counseling center of the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs located at 300 Flatbush Ave., Kingston, New York. Tel. 331-9300 Ext., 287.

Camp Slates 'Music Man'

RED HOOK

Camp Rising Sun of Red Hook will present Meredith Wilson's smash hit, "The Music Man," Friday, July 26 at 8:30 p.m. in the outdoor camp theatre.

All proceeds of the performance will benefit the Northern Dutchess Hospital, Rhinebeck, and the Northern Dutchess Day Care Center, Red Hook, in what George E. Jonas, founder of the camp, characterizes as "a gesture of friendship for the people of Red Hook and Rhinebeck in thanks for their many years of support and cooperation."

Musical director and piano accompanist for the production is Gerry Marmillo, music teacher at Red Hook High School, assisted by Craig Knutson of Thief River Falls, Minn. Co-director of the play is Phil Thornton, who attends Carleton College, Northfield, Minn. Set design is by Mark Schuyler of Queens.

The lead role in the musical, that of super-conartist, Prof. Harold Hill, will be played by Tony De Franco of Delmar; Marian, the librarian, will be played by Blake Allan Bell of Jackson, Miss.; Joe Carrese of Burnt Hills, N.H. will play the "child," Winthrop; and Michael Borges of Brooklyn will portray the mayor of the mythical "River City."

"All 56 boys in the camp will have some part in the production," Marmillo said, "and it should prove very interesting in light of the fact that all female roles are played by boys, as well as the many and varied accents of a cast which hails from all over the world!"

Bike Safety Rules

WASHINGTON, D.C.

The U. S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has announced mandatory Federal safety regulations for bicycles introduced into interstate commerce on or after Jan. 1, 1975.

The bicycle regulations, issued under authority of the Federal Hazardous Substance Act, are directed toward eliminating and reducing the severity of thousands of injuries attributed each year to mechanical and structural problems. The bicycle frame, steering systems, wheels and brakes will have to meet requirements and tests for safe construction effectiveness, strength and performance.

Other provisions require protected edges on metal fenders and coverings for protruding bolts, chain guards for bikes that are not freewheeling, locking devices to secure wheel hubs to the bicycle frame, handlebar, seat and stem clamps, and adequate instructions for assembly and maintenance. Wide angle refectors on front and rear of the bicycle and on the front and rear surfaces of the pedals will improve night visibility. Manufacturers will have the alternative of reflectorized tires or wide angle reflectors mounted on the wheel spokes

Bicycles rank number one on the commission's product hazard index. Injury experts state that over one million children and adults are injured each year in bike related accidents. The Commission estimates that in 1973, 419,000 persons sought hospital emergency room treatment for injuries associated with bicycles.

Many bike injuries are the result of the interaction between the rider, the bicycle and the environment, and the Commission has slated a nationwide bicycle education program to begin this fall to encourage ride education and the proper maintenance and use of bicycles.

Teen Pageant

ALBANY

The 1974 Miss New York Teen Ager Pageant will be held July 19 and 20 at the Albany Hyatt House.

The winner of the title of Miss New York State Teenager 1974 will receive, in addition to a scholarship, a six-day all expense paid trip to Atlanta, Ga. to compete in the national finals for the title of Miss National TeenAger.

The current Miss New York Teen Ager is Karol Ellen Ware of Elnora. She won her title over 98 girls in the 1973 pageant, and went on to place among the top 16 finalists in the national competition.

The contestants, aged 13 to 17, will be judged on their scholastic achievements, civic contributions, poise, personality and appearance. There is no talent or swimsuit competition. In addition, each state contestant will write an essay on the pageant theme, "What's Right About America," and the top three winners will receive special awards.

DOT Hearing Held on Buses

ALBANY

The State Department of Transportation held a hearing in Albany Monday concerning the application of Adirondack Trailways for a permanent permit to operate passenger buses on the New York Thruway between Kingston and Albany. Trailways has been operating on a temporary permit since it initiated that service last September.

Opposed to the granting of the permanent permit was Mountain View Coach Lines because they said they have an existing franchise between Albany and Kingston and that Trailways was taking revenue Mountain View needed to finance local service. Mountain View claimed that the Trailways franchise was taking $20,000 to $40,000 a year out of Mountain View's pockets—ironically the same amount the company lost last year. Several residents including senior citizens also testified.

Frank Albright, president of Mountain View said that unless the Kingston to Albany revenue was restored to his company, he would have to continually cut back on service to make up the deficit and if that were the case, it would be better to abandon, sell equipment and shut down.

Trailways passenger agent, John McGarry reportedly told the hearing that if Mountain View abandons its operation, Adirondack would tie in its runs, if convenient.

DOT action on the application is expected in the near future.

Souers-Mellert

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Souers of 134 O'Neil Street, Kingston, announce the marriage of their daughter, Diana, to Timothy James Mellert, 151 Smith Avenue, Kingston. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Mellert of RD 1, Box 439, Woodstock.

The Rev. John Mongin, pastor, officiated at the ceremony, Saturday, July 6 at Reformed Church of the Comforter. Mrs. Anita Aird sang wedding selections accompanied at the organ by Gloria Jean Sparks.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride selected a white organza A-line gown styled with pearled Alencon lace over the Empire bodice and sleeves. Lace appliques accented the skirt and chapel train. A pearled leaf and floral bow headpiece held her triple-tiered illusion veiling. She carried a nosegay of white roses, white pompons, ferns and baby's breath.

Mrs. Deborah Elmendorf of 48 Pine Street, Kingston, was matron of honor in a mint green gown styled with a round neckline featuring a apelet collar of dotted swiss and daisy design. A double bow of dotted swiss held her matching veil and she carried a nosegay of orange pompons and baby's breath.

Attendants were Mrs. Jean Mellert, Woodstock; Miss Kathy Mellert, Miss Donna Souers, both of Kingston. Miss Robin Souers, Kingston, served as flower girl. For her bridal party, the bride selected a color scheme of pink, blue, tangerine and yellow. The gowns were identical in styling to the honor attendant's and they carried nosegays of pompons.

William Jay Mellert of Woodstock was best man. Ushers were Dennis Elmendorf, Kingston; Allan Souers, William Christopher St John, both of Woodstock. Dean Souers of Kingston was ringbearer.

A reception was given at Reformed Church of the Comforter Fellowship Hall.

The bride, a 1971 graduate of Kingston High School, is employed by the New York Telephone Company.

Her husband attended Onteora High School and served in the U.S. Army including tours of duty in Germany and Vietnam. He is employed as a diesel bechanic at Eagle G.M. Diesel Company, Inc., Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Mellert will reside at 151 Smith Avenue, Kingston.

Golgoski-Renaud

Kathy Ann Golgoski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Golgoski of 1118 Dogwood Street, Kingston, was united in marriage to Douglas H. Renaud of 118 Linderman Avenue, Kingston, son of Mrs. Helen Wright of Westfield, Mass., and the late William Renaud. The bride is also the granddaughter of Mrs. Martha Luedtke and the late Clarence Luedtke.

The marriage took place at St. Catherine Laboure Church in Lake Katrine. The Rev. James LeBar officiated at the double ring ceremony and celebrated the Nuptial Mass. Traditional wedding selections were provided by Mrs. James Sweeney.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose an Empire styled gown of white polyester crepe fashioned with a cathedral length train. The bodice was lace-covered and featured a scooped neckline. Matching lace accented her Juliet cap which held a fingertip length veil. She carried a bouquet of pink roses with white baby's breath.

Miss Kathy Benicase of Kingston was maid of honor. Attendants included Miss Shirley Golgoski, sister of the bride, Kingston; Mrs. Patty McDonough, Kingston; Miss Mary Lynn Dacquino, Utica. Miss Michelle Luedtke of Kingston, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

For her wedding party, the bride selected pastel colors of pink, blue, yellow and green. Their floral printed polyester crepe gowns were in the Empire styling with scooped necklines and cap sleeves. They wore wide-brimmed picture hats to match their gowns and each carried a nosegay of daisies. The flower girl wore a white floral printed polyester crepe gown styled similarly to those of the attendants. She carried a white basket of daisies.

William Renaud Jr. of Westfield, Mass., was best man for his brother. Ushers were John Golgoski Jr., Michael Golgoski, brothers of the bride, Kingston; and Joe Corcoran of Saugerties. Richard Luedtke Jr. of Kingston, cousin of the bride, served as ringbearer.

A reception was given at the Flamingo Restaurant in Saugerties. Guests attended from Canada, Massachusetts, Long Island, Staten Island, Chase Mills and Utica.

The bride is a 1971 graduate of Kingston High School, a 1972 graduate of BOCES where she studied Child Care and Development, and a 1973 graduate of Ulster County Community College where she earned an AA degree in Social Science. She attended Oneonta State College, majoring in Elementary Education, and plans to continue her education in New Paltz.

Her husband, an alumnus of Huntington High School in Huntington, Mass., attended Westfield State College in Massachusetts. He is now manager of the F. W. Woolworth Store, Albany Avenue, Kingston.

For her wedding trip to Virginia Beach and Washington, D.C., the bride designed and made a halter dress of white floral polyester crepe with matching white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Renaud will reside at 118 Linderman Avenue, Kingston.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE

WHEN YOUR BUDGET WON'T JELL QUITE RIGHT . . .

Dear Heloise:

Since we all use gelatin for economical desserts and salads, could you tell me the right way to mix it?

Each time I come out with thick glop on the bottom and can never seem to stir it long enough to dissolve this thick sugary formation.

Cookie

• • •

Dear Cookie:

I never make gelatin in a pan or bowl. I use a pint canning fruit jar!

I put the jar in my kitchen sink and fill it with boiling water.

I then dump out half of the water. Into this half-filled jar I pour my granules. I then take a big tablespoon and stir it. The hot water will immediately dissolve all the sugary glop.

As soon as the granules are completely dissolved, I fill the jar up with ice cubes. I do all this in the sink to save cleaning the counter.

I do not quite fill the pint jar up to the top . . . I leave about one inch or so of space at the top of this jar when putting in my ice cubes. Then when the gelatin is cool, if I m in the mood, I add sliced bananas or other fruit.

Place the jar in your refrigerator. If the fruit comes to the top of the jar, take the jar and shake it from time to time. (Be sure that the lid is on tight.) The fruit will then distribute itself.

If you do not have a lid for your jar, leave the spoon in the jar when you put in the refrigerator. As the gelatin begins to thicken, whirl the spoon around to mix it up again until the fruit distributes itself.

Heloise

• • •

Dear Heloise:

Sometime ago I was watching my small grandchildren playing in their wading pool. It was quite a struggle at times for them to keep from slipping down.

I suggested to my daughter that the nonskid strips used in bathtubs would be a good idea for the wading pools.

Of course, the pool must be thoroughly dry when putting in these strips.

M.M.

• • •

Dear Heloise:

Scraps of new linoleum can be bought very inexpensively, and are excellent for lining the shelves of the kitchen cabinet where you store pots and pans.

This linoleum can be wiped off in a jiffy and pots do not stick to it.

If you lay the linoleum in the sun until it is warm, it will cut easily.

A.W.

• • •

Dear Heloise:

This weekend I decided to fix hot dogs, but the buns I had were stale.

So after bringing the water to a boil and dropping in the hot dogs, I placed the small aluminum rack from our broiler pan on top of the pot.

Then I opened the buns and laid them face down on the rack. The steam from the boiling water steamed and freshened the buns.

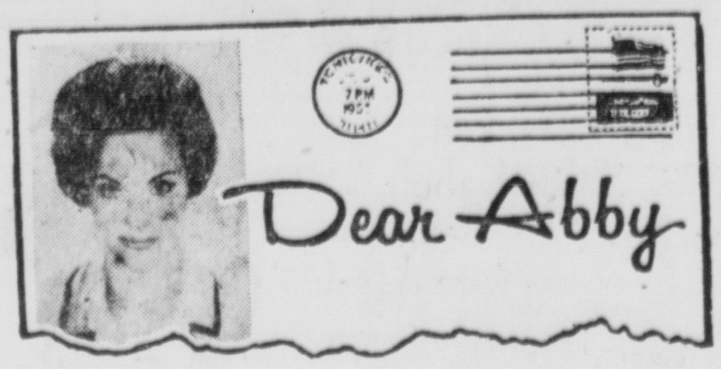
Call the Cops about Hippies Next Door?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.



DEAR ABBY: We've lived in this nice family neighborhood for fifteen yeas. Last September, our next-door neighbors rented their house to a group of long-haired hippies. Several young men and women are living together there, and I'm sure they aren't married.

Abby, I don't have anything against hippies, but I am worried about my children. I've tried to give them a good moral upbringing. Just yesterday I caught my teenage son peering through the fence that separates our backyards, and sure enough, one of the girls was sunbathing completely naked!

My husband and I can't agree on what to do. I say we should call the police to protect our children, who are at an impressionable age. My husband thinks we should leave well enough alone. What do you think?

MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I vote with your husband. And tell your son to quit "peering" through the fence, or your neighbors might justifiably feel that their privacy is being violated, and THEY will call the police.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I was chatting with my nephew in a very crowded and noisy room. (A cocktail party was in progress.) I had to ask him to please repeat nearly everything he said not only because of the noise, but this nephew has a bad habit of mumbling.

Finally, he shouted: "Dammit, Aunt —, if you're deaf, why don't you get yourself a hearing aid?"

I am 77 and he is 36.

The following morning I went to my attorney's office and cut this nephew out of my will.

One hundred dollars to a charity of your choice, Abby, if you print this in the Los Angeles Times. My nephew never misses your column.

LOVING AUNT

DEAR AUNT. When they come around to collect for the Cancer Crusade, give them a extra hundred for me.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: It's 4:30 a.m. and I'm so mad I can't go back to sleep. It seems my brother-in-law, Joe, is making a habit of spending the night on our couch.

His reason for staying here is that he is too drunk to drive home. He totaled his pickup two months ago after one of his drinking sprees.

My husband thinks I'm selfish for not wanting Joe here. I disagree. I feel this house is half mine and I should be able to get up and go into the living room in the middle of the night without worrying about someone seeing me half nude. I'm eight months pregnant, so I get up a lot, and I don't like to put on my robe each time.

I think if Joe wants to get plastered he should make other sleeping arrangements. (Like a motel.) What should I do? Grin and bear it for my husband's sake? Or tell Joe how I feel? I'm afraid if Joe killed himself driving home, my husband would blame me.

HAD IT WITH JOE

DEAR HAD IT: If Joe comes to your house plastered ask your husband to escort him home. Drunk drivers kill not only themselves — they kill innocent people.

Winners in Delmarva Chicken Cooking Contest Are Named

For the second year in row, a man and two women shared top honors in the Delmarva Chicken Cooking Contest, a preliminary of the National Chicken Cooking Contest.

John Dardashti, an architect from Wilmington, Delaware, beguiled judges with his Chicken Shish-Kabobs. Dardashti, a native of Iran, incorporated Persian recipe ideas with a unique cutting procedure and created his award winning dish.

Chicken, the famous bird from the Delmarva Peninsula, was combined with another area specialty, oysters, and the result was Mrs. Katherine Graalman's Oyster Stuffed Chicken. Halves of chicken, stuffed with an oyster-rice dressing and basted with sweet but tangy sauce, are the perfect solution for any company menu, according to Mrs. Graalman of Annapolis, Maryland.

Chicken Breasts Supreme was the prize winning entry of Mrs. Sara Bodell of Covington, Virginia. Deboned chicken breasts are dipped in egg and coated with a mixture of bread crumbs, Parmesan cheese and dried beef. Breast pieces are browned in hot oil for a flavor treat to rank among favorites for any occasion.

The three top recipes follow. These and additional winning recipes will be available in leaflet form by August 30. To receive a copy at no charge, write to Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., Rt. 2, Box 47, Georgetown, De. 19947. A cookbook containing all recipes prepared in the Delmarva Cok-off is currently available from the above address at a cost of $1.00 per copy.

Chicken Shish-Kabob

Two whole broiler-fryer chickens

One tablespoon Ac'cent flavor enchancer

One-fourth cup Mazola corn oil

Juice of two lemons

With a meat cleaver, chop chickens into 2 to 3-inch pieces (do not remove bone). Sprinkle chicken with flavor enhancer. Skewer onto 4-6 long skewers. Brush chicken with oil; place skewers on grill over hot charcoal. Turn to brown lightly on both sides. Brush sauce evenly over chicken. Continue grilling 15-20 minutes or until chicken is done. Brush frequently with sauce while grilling. Remove from grill; squeeze juice of lemons over chicken and serve.

Makes 4-6 servings.

SAUCE:

One cup red wine vinegar

Two tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

Three-fourths cup catsup

One teaspoon dry mustard

One teaspoon Ac'cent flavor enchancer

One-half teaspoon salt

One-eighth teaspoon pepper

Two garlic cloves, peeled and minced.

Mix together all ingredients; brush generously over chicken.

Le Gourmet

Oyster Stuffed Chicken

Three broiler-fryer chickens, split in half

Three teaspoons Ac'cent flavor enhancer

One-quarter cup Mazola corn oil

One-half cup lemon marmalade

One-quarter teaspoon cayenne pepper

One teaspoon salt

One clove garlic, minced

Rub chicken with flavor enhancer. Place chicken, skin side up, on large broiler pan. In a saucepan, mix together oil, marmalade, garlic, cayenne and salt. Hat until marmalade melts. Baste chicken with sauce. Broil 6-9 inches from heat for 30 minutes, basting frequently. Remove from broiler. Turn chicken; fill each half with rice stuffing. Drizzle with remaining sauce; return to broiler for 20 minutes or until stuffing is browned.

Makes six servings.

Rice Stuffing

Three cups uncooked quick rice

One pint oysters, drained

Two tablespoons Mazola corn oil

Two tablespoons chopped green pepper

Three tablespoons chopped celery

Three tablespoons chopped onion

Two tablespoons fresh, chopped parsley

One-half cup fresh, sliced mushrooms

One teaspoon salt

One-quarter teaspoon black pepper

Cook rice according to package directions. Chop drained oysters. Heat oil in skillet; add green pepper, celery, onion, mushrooms, parsley and oysters. Saute until vegetables are tender and oysters curled around the edges. Season with salt and pepper. Add oyster mixture to cooked rice. Fill chicken halves with stuffing.

Chicken Breasts Supreme

Two whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved, boned and skinned

One-half cup flour

One teaspoon Ac'cent flavor enhancer

One-half teaspoon salt

One-quarter teaspoon pepper

Two eggs

One cup fresh bread crumbs

One-quarter cup grated Parmesan cheese

One-half-cup grated/*dried beef

One-third cup Mazola corn oil

In a large skillet, heat oil and add chicken pieces. Cook over medium heat 10-20 minutes or until browned on both sides. Reduce heat and cook for 20 minutes or until fork tender.

Makes four servings.

FROSTED APPLE GINGER COOLER

It will be another few weeks before the first summer apples are ready to use. Meanwhile it is good to know that many delightful cool desserts and beverages can be made with a variety of processed apples, always available in groceries and supermarkets.

For the most part, summer apples are grown locally and the type you will find depends upon the vicinity in which you live.

Did you know that September 26th this year will mark the 200th anniversary of the birth of Johnny Appleseed? You will be hearing and reading a great deal about this extraordinary man whose real name was Jonathan Chapman, and the wonderful work he did during his adult lifetime, planting the seeds for future apple orchards in pioneer country, to enrich the lives of homesteaders. It is a fascinating, true story of one man's unselfish dedication to the welfare of humanity, so be on the lookout for interesting reading ahead.

Warm weather is with us, and will linger long. Tall frosty drinks offer welcome refreshment, and when they are made with apple juice the flavor is both different and delectable. Be ready to share this brief and easy recipe with your guests, because you can be sure they will ask for it!

Frosted Apple Ginger Cooler

Combine equal amounts of chilled apple juice and chilled ginger ale. Pour into tall glasses. Top each with a generous scooop of sherbet (lemon, orange, lime, or raspberry.) Garnish with springs of fresh mint.

Food Tips

Mozzarella is a semisoft cheese that may be made from whole or partly skimmed milk; when it is packaged, the kind of milk used in its making is specified on the package.

If leftover sliced roast turkey (from the freezer) is dry, serve it with a cheese sauce. The turkey may be heated in a double boiler or tightly wrapped in foil in the oven.

Hearty and nutritious brakfast food: oatmeal pancakes (made from scratch) with sliced ripe bananas added to the batter. Serve with butter or margarine and maple syrup.

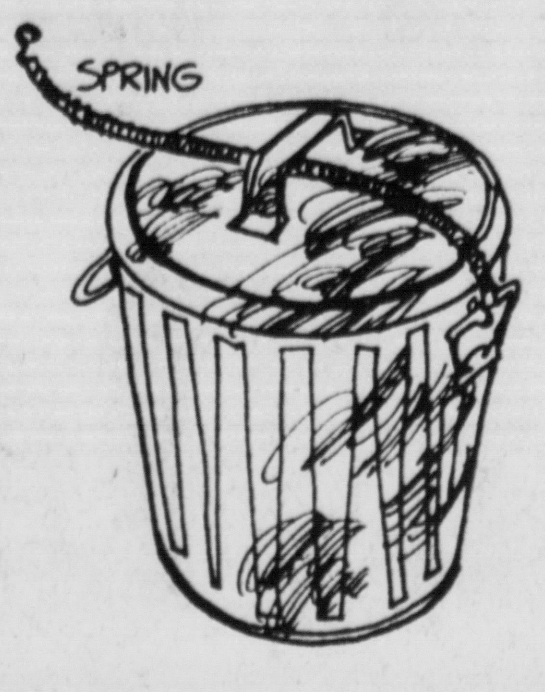
THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS®

...it tells you how



This is the time of year, it seems, when the spring on the back porch door always needs to be replaced (I guess because the kids fan in and out so much). This is also the season when neighborhood strays most persistently attack your loaded and fragrant garbage can the night before its contents are due to be picked up.

So OK. Let's put two and two together. Recycle that old screen door spring by permanently fastening one end to one handle of the garbage can and bending the loop on the other end into an easily fastened hook. Then, whenever you place the lid on the container, run the spring through the top's handle and secure it to the second handhold on the can. That way, no dog will be able to get the lid off . . . but the trashman can.

Conserving energy and recycling old castoffs into useful items are definitely IN. For a list of 50 or more environmentally sound living ideas, send 10¢ and a stamped, self-addressed long envelope to THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS®, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304. Ask for Reprint No. 47, ECOLOGICAL LIVING.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

(c) 1974 by The Emily Post Institute Inc.

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to Mrs. Raehlin of Somerset, Mass.

Dear Mrs. Post: Please advise me what to do in this case. My daughter-in-law, who divorced my son, and we, her ex-in-laws, are still friends. I always sent her cards on her birthday and other occasions and would sign Mom and Dad (with family name). Now her birthday is coming real soon, and I'd like to continue to send her a card, but don't know how to sign it.

Any information you can give me will be appreciated.

Mrs. A. Raehlin

Dear Mrs. Raehlin: It is always gratifying to hear from parents who do not "take sides" and turn violently against the ex-wife or ex-husband of their child.

Go right on calling yourself "Mom and Dad Raehlin" when you sign your cards. It would surely seem very cold if you suddenly started using names other than those by which your ex-daughter-in-law knew you. The only other alternative I can think of is to sign "The Raehlins," but I think she would really appreciate the "Mom and Dad."

Dear Mr. Post: A dear friend and I are having a debate, and I would appreciate your point of view.

My husband and I are out with a few friends. The waitress brings the check and places it face down on the table. The husbands begin to divide the tab up. What happens next is what really infuriates me. One wife decides to triple-check the bill, checking the leftovers to make sure we all got our orders, re-adding the bill, making sure the tip is the correct percentage.

My friend feels that in this day and age anything goes, and that a woman can hand her escort a twenty-dollar bill across the table, so he can pay the bill. I have nothing against picking up the tab, but when it is done in this fashion it seems to demean the man and any guests that are with the couple.

Mrs. D. K.

Dear Mrs. K.: I agree with you. Too many cooks spoil the broth, and too many "adders" confuse the accounting.

Today, men and women, whether married or not, are free to decide who will actually provide the cash, but it is still the man's prerogative to pick up the bill, produce the money and decide on the amount of the tip.

When several couples are out together, it is best for ONE man to do the mathematics, although the others are certainly free to ask to see the check. No matter how capable, when the women get into the act, too, there can be nothing but chaos!

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post: Those of us in the British tradition retain our two given names and drop our maiden name when we are married. Please explain to your readers that "the right thing," as you put it, varies according to one's background.

Mrs. G.

Comment: I have often said — and am glad to reapeat for Mrs. G. — when a particular ethnic group or even citizens of a certain locality do something in a particular way out of tradition, then it is right for them. We do many things differently than other nations, and those who come from those nations often want to keep their traditions and cultures alive here. They should certainly do so if they wish.

PLASTICS IN FURNISHINGS FOR THE HOME

Plastics are now being used and accepted on their own without having to imitate other materials such as wood, marble and metal, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home -Economist. They can be molded, bent and fabricated into many new and exciting shapes and forms that add variety, function and vitality to your home environments.

The price of plastic furniture is equal to or slightly higher than that of furniture made of the more traditional materials. All indications are that as manufacturing technology is further refined the prices will be even more appealing and that plastic in home furnishings is here to stay. Further, the continuing volume sales of well designed pieces plus domestic manufacturing will further reduce costs.

When shopping for plastic furniture Clark Garner, Specialist Cornell University, suggests that you look for:

— A relatively thick or heavy gauge of plastic. This usually indicates better quality.

— A smooth surface free of pits and ripples and edges that are smooth.

Reinforcing elements which are concealed unless they are an integral design feature.

— Applied or treated finishes on all exposed and visible parts.

— A uniform color and finish.

The following glossary further defines the various plastics and their uses:

ABS: Opaque plastic noted for its resiliency, impact resistance. Molded into chairs, tables, shells for upholstered furniture.

ACRYLIC: Clear or colored plastic which resists sharp blows, but scratches easily.

MELAMINE: Scratch-and-moisture-resistant plastic laminated to desks, buffets, table tops.

NYLON: Rigid plastic that resists temperature extremes, hard blows. Found in drawer guides, chair glides. Non-rigid type used in upholstery.

PHENOLICS: Opaque, dark-colored plastic used for drawers and other furniture parts.

POLYESTER: Reinforced with fiber glass for tables, chair, furniture shells. Polyester, alone, found in simulated wood carvings.

POLYETHYLENE: Lightweight, semi-transparent to opaque plastic with good resistance to breakage.

POLYSTYRENE: Rigid, lustrous plastic susceptible to severe impact. Molded into tables, chairs, shells for upholstered pieces.

POLYURETHANE: Flexible foam used as cushioning. Rigid type found in interior shells.

VINYL: Strong, easy-to-clean material most often used for upholstery. Tender, loving care is essential with plastics, as with all quality furniture. Many plastics will scratch easily, others may be dented or damaged by sharp blows.

DUSTING: Dust with a soft, damp cloth or chamois, wiping gently.

WASHING: Use a mild soap or detergent and lukewarm water solution with a clean, soft cloth or sponge. Rinse well, then blot dry.

Do not use scouring compounds or solvents such as alcohol or acetone.

To remove tar or grease use a good grade of naptha or kerosene.

POLISHING: A periodic waxing with a good grade automotive paste wax (not a cleaner-wax combination) will protect the surface and maintain a beautiful lustre. Apply a thin even coating of wax with a soft cloth. Buff lightly.

ANTI-STATIC COATINGS: These coatings prevent the accumulation of electro-static charge for several months. Between applications plastics need only be dusted with a soft cloth.

SCRATCH REMOVAL: Minor surface scratches can be removed by waxing. Deeper scratches, especially on acrylics, often can be removed by sanding lightly with very fine "wet or dry" sandpaper and then buffing lightly.

Nude Sunbathing . . . 'New York Not Ready'

NEW YORK (AP) — New York is not ready for nude sunbathing, in the view of a federal magistrate.

"I don't know where these people get the idea they have a constitutional right to strip naked and parade in front of other people," Magistrate Vincent A. Catoggio told a young man charged with disorderly conduct, intoxication and shoving a park ranger while strolling in the nude.

The ranger said he sighted Shelly Lieberman, a 25-year-old hairdresser, walking in the altogether along the boardwalk at a federally-controlled section of beach at Jacob Riis Park in the Rockaway section of Queens. The officer said he was pushed by Lieberman as he was writing Lieberman a summons for disorderly conduct.

The defendant's lawyer contended the particular beach area had become a haven over the past two summers for nude and gay sunbathers.

That was too much for Catoggio.

"If this is what's going on at Jacob Riis Park, the Department of the Interior might well consider closing the place," he said.

Lieberman was released in $5,000 bond and ordered to appear in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn on Aug. 29.

Poughkeepsie Man Drowns

TOWN OF CLINTON

A 60-year-old Poughkeepsie man drowned Tuesday when he fell out of a boat while fishing in Brown's Pond in this Dutchess County township.

State police said Albert Williams of 95 Catherine Street, Poughkeepsie, was fishing in a small rowboat with a 65-year-old companion when the mishap occurred at about 9:30 a.m.

Williams' friend, Lester Mayo, also of Poughkeepsie, could not swim and was unable to save the drowning man, police said.

Williams' body was recovered at about 1 p.m. Tuesday from about 30 feet of water by state police scuba divers who were summoned to the scene.

The death was ruled accidental due to drowning, police said.

Your Astrograph

Thursday, July 18

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your generosity is likely to be imposed upon by one to whom you'll give a hand. He won't be satisfied until he has your arm.

TARUS (April 20-May 20) An idea that you have looks very promising on the drawing board. It still has a lot of flaws to be worked out before trying it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Manage your material affairs wisely now and you're going to come out ahead. If you don't, you'll have a big deficit facing you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you don't do things on schedule it's unlikely you'll do them at all. Delays give you doubts that are hard to overcome.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be very selective as to whom you give sensitive information to. The wrong confidant will misuse what you tell him.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It would be a mistake at this time to count upon one who is friendly toward you to pull strings in an area where he can't deliver.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Others will willingly respond to your directives only if you issue your requests in a congenial manner. Being bossy won't cut it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's best you lay everything out in the open in dealings with others. Hard feelings will result if they think you're holding back.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a little warning for you at this time. Don't become too involved with a person of questionable reputation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Bear in mind, teamwork is only effective if both parties pull together. Be sure your goal is in harmony with your partner's.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is not the time to make changes in procedures that have proven their worth and reliability, for something as yet untried.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar 20) You'll be luckier and your dealings will go more smoothly if you tackle your big tasks early in the day. Later, complications set in.

Interesting contacts will be made this year that will have a salutary effect upon your overall outlook. The new knowledge you'll acquire will serve you later.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

YES OR NO?: (Q.) J.D. has asked me to have sex with him.

I have told my mom about it and we have talked it over but my father doesn't know anything about it. I would like to have your opinion.—Mixed Up in Maryland

(A.) Your letter is signed "Mixed-Up." That means your emotions are mixed on this matter. As long as you are not sure about a step—especially a big one like this—you should not take it.

Congratulations on talking with your mother. Many girls who write me need to do just that. If they would, or could, they would have fewer problems.

FIVE YEARS: (Q.) I know this girl. We are real good friends. But I have grown to love her very much. The problem is that she is 19 and I am only 14.

She said I could call her whenever I wanted. But I don't think she could ever love me. Please print this. I want her to know. This is how I'm going to tell her how I feel about her.—In Love in Texas

(A.) Continue your friendship with the girl. Time may be kind to the friendship and after a few years it may grow into mutual love. But don't hurry it.

(Write to Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received Jean Adams cannot send personal answers.)

By Oswald and James Jacoby

No bridge player is immune to the overbidding disease. Even the best get to impossible contracts, but then they make them on occasion.

Here we see Giorgio Bellandonna and Benito Garrozzo of Italy, probably the best pair in the world, going to five spades instead of doubling five clubs for a sure profit.

Benito who did most of the overbidding wound up bringing the cntract home with consideralbe help from the French expert who sat East.

A heart lead would have cooked his goose, but you can't blame West for playing the king of clubs. Benito won; ruffed a club with dummy's nine of spades and led the four of spades. East could have defeated the hand right then by rising with the ace of spades and leading the king of hearts but East played the five.

Benito finessed the six spot; led the jack of diamonds and let it ride for a losing finesse.

Once more East could insure a set. He should have played ace and jack of spades. Benito would be able to discard either but not both of his losers on the long diamond. A careful count to 13 would have told East this but East was in a fog. He led his king of hearts.

Now Garrozzo ran the diamonds to discard his losing heart, ruffed a heart, led his last club, ruffed with dummy's king and claimed his contract.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

"Chauvinism" means excessive and exaggerated patriotism. The word is derived from the name of Nicolas Chauvin, a French soldier, whose patriotism and attachment to Napoleon came to be ridiculed by his comrades, The World Almanac notes. Chauvin's loyalty symbolized the cult of glory seekers and veterans of Napoleon's armies after 1815.

FEMALE RED TAILED HAWK WITH YOUNG

Rare Event...Red-Tailed Hawks Bred

By MATT SPIRENG

SAUGERTIES — While "blessed events" are normally a dime a dozen in the animal kingdom, a Saugerties ornithologist has succeeded in bringing about a "blessed event" which also has the distinction of being a very rare event, indeed.

William H. Robinson, ornithologist and a biology teacher, has successfully bred a pair of red-tailed hawks in captivity.

"As far as I know this is only the third time red-tailed hawks have produced young in captivity," Robinson told the Freeman.

"Two years ago, Cornell University made national news by producing a fertile red-tailed hawk egg using artificial insemination," Robinson said. "But these birds bred naturally in captivity, which is rare."

Success in breeding the pair was neither immediate nor simple. "The two adult birds formed a pair bond last year and laid two eggs, but neither of them was fertile," Robinson said.

This year he removed the first eggs laid, forcing the female to lay a second clutch of eggs, and 36 days later, two of the eggs hatched.

That was May 5. But, using a little twist on the old saying, you shouldn't count your hawks until they've grown. "To be certain the young birds developed properly, they had to be fed a natural diet of smaller animals similar to those that they feed upon in the wild," Robinson said. "To accomplish this, I raise chickens and pigeons and pick up fresh road kills in the Saugerties area."

"After the hatching, the male hawk would carry the prey to the nest and leave it there for the female to do the actual feeding," Robinson explained.

Now, several months after the eggs hatched, Robinson can count his hawks. The two youngsters are about ready to fly. Robinson said he may either send them to England (if he can cut through all the red tape) for a breeding project there, or he may release them.

If he does release them, he will have to leave food out for them for a while. "It will take a while for them to become efficient at catching their own," he said.

Special

The adult pair that Robinson has were gotten apparently due to their initial problems at locating their own food — and their tameness.

He explained that he trapped the pair about three years ago in Dutchess County at the request of a conservation officer. "Someone had apparently removed them from their nest when they were young and raised them," he explained. "They were causing a lot of problems. One stole a steak off a grill, and they were taking clothes off clothes lines."

Robinson said the red-tailed hawk is the largest of the soaring hawks found in the eastern United States, with a wing span of about four feet.

"Unlike species such as the peregrine falcon and bald eagle, which have declined in numbers during the past decade, red-tailed hawk populations have not only remained stable, but in some areas have actually increased," Robinson said.

He explained that the breeding of hawks in captivity will help make it possible to establish successful methods for future breeding should the red-tailed hawk population decrease.

Robinson bands about 50 wild red-tailed hawks a year for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and last year was appointed to be on the first falconry advisory board in New York State. He also rehabilitates birds which are wounded or otherwise injured, despite federal laws protecting hawks and owls.

Robinson has lectured widely, and his pictures of birds have appeared across the United States and in Europe. He recently completed a movie titled "Birds that Hunt" which was four years in the making, and will soon be released.
